

ROPER ON STAND

BRITISH LOST 307,169
MEN IN THREE MONTHS
ON THE SOMME FRONT

LONDON, Sept. 30, 10:53 a. m.—British losses in September were at the rate of more than 3000 a day. The casualties on all fronts reported in this month were: Officers, 5133; men, 114,110.

Heavy as were the British losses in September they were lighter than those of August which were 127,945, a daily average of 4127. In July the first month of the Somme offensive the losses were about half those of August or September, notwithstanding the fact that in July the British stormed the first line German defenses. The casualties in that month were 59,675, so that the total for the three months of the Somme drive is 307,169.

French and English press despatches report that, considering the character of the fighting the losses of the allies on the Somme are low. An official British statement of Thursday said the British losses in the preceding few days had been small, not only relatively to the importance of the gains but absolutely. German reports on the other hand, dwell on the large losses with which it is said the allies are meeting, which are declared to be out of all proportion to the ground gained. Since Jan. 23th the British government has issued no figures of total losses. Up to that time the daily average of losses from the beginning of the war was slightly more than 1000. Although the casualties at present are about four times those of the first 16 months of the war, this increase is due not only to the offensive operations now in progress, but to the fact that Great Britain's forces in the field are far larger than in the earlier period of the war.

INFANT'S BODY FOUND
FLOATING IN CANAL

This noon the dead body of a female infant was found floating in the Dutton street canal near the Machine shop gate. The gate tender there saw the little body floating and it was taken to the undertaking rooms of C. H. Molloy and Sons. It is apparently the body of a still-born baby. Dr. Meigs has been notified.

ALL BERLIN PAPERS CONTINUE TO THE BITTER CRITICISM—RAPS U. S. NEUTRALITY

BERLIN, Sept. 29, via London, Sept. 30.—"Virtually all the Berlin newspapers contribute to the bitter criticism which is being made of the Americans who have joined the French army. The news of the death in action of Flight Lieut. Kiffin Rockwell has precipitated a storm of criticism.

The Post says that the presence of Rockwell and others in enemy camps cannot be regarded as the acts of individuals, but declares that America sends its own citizens to the European theatres of war to fight Germany. The paper says that the Rockwell incident shows "to what a depth regard for neutrality has sunk among our enemies and in America. Such an unheard-of conception of neutrality serves to be labeled in the plainest way and not to be forgotten."

The Tagliche Rundschau speaks of the concepts of neutrality as entirely lost and the Kreuz Zeitung, Germania and Boersen Zeitung print similar statements. The latter paper prints the comment in its latest lead line: "The

PRISONER TESTIFIES
IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

Albert J. Roper on trial for the murder at Tewksbury on March 1 of his father, Albert Roper, a florist, testified in his own defense today immediately after his counsel, William H. Wilson, had concluded an opening statement in which he declared the prisoner was in Boston the night of the murder.

The state rested its case yesterday afternoon. It had been announced that a number of witnesses would be called by the defense and there was some surprise in the courtroom when Roper took the stand.

Court opened at ten o'clock and Lawyer Wm. H. Wilson, senior counsel for the defense, addressed the jury, explaining the relationship and feeling between the defendant and his father and also the whereabouts of Roper on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 29th and March 1.

He said he would prove that the defendant was not seen on the electric car at Chandler's turnout on Wednesday night and would show by witnesses that it was on Tuesday night. He admitted that the defendant had lied to Mrs. Fox and that the so-called roll of money that he displayed at the New Richmond hotel on Wednesday was $35 of the $55 which he belonged to Mrs. Fox and which had been mislaid or lost by her during the summer. He said that the $20 given Mrs. Fox for rent and the $23 found under the rug was part of the money that belonged to Mrs. Fox.

Albert J. Roper, the defendant, was the first witness called. He took the stand shortly after 11 o'clock. He testified in a very low tone of voice and when testifying to the fact that his father was his best friend, he broke down and cried.

Lawyer Wilson's Address

At the opening of this morning's session Lawyer William H. Wilson addressed the jury. He spoke in part as follows: "The law does not demand that some person should be punished, but that the right person should be punished and suitable punishment inflicted. In a civil case if a mistake is made it may be corrected, but not so in a case of this kind." Mr. Wilson then referred to the woman, Mrs. Albert Roper, who is a mother and was made a widow as the result of what occurred on March 1, the murder of her father. He said that a man is innocent until adjudged guilty, and that a man in order to be found guilty must be found guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. He said that if there is in your mind a reasonable doubt the accused must be given the benefit of the doubt. We have often learned of the imperfection of human memory and mistaken identity, then there is the power of suggestion which mixes things up in our minds. It is incumbent upon the commonwealth to prove a motive for the crime. We will try and establish the lack of any motive. It will be shown the relation between Albert J. Roper and his father, that the defendant was the favorite son of the deceased. Circumstantial evidence must be received and considered with great care.

"Robbery is not murder. The $55 taken from the closet at 18 Wait street will be accounted for. There will be no evidence to account for the $300 or $350 that the elder Roper is supposed to have had on his person."

Mr. Wilson then cited several murder cases where while the evidence appeared to be strongly against the accused it has been found that the latter has been innocent of the crime.

Continuing Mr. Wilson said: "It was while Albert J. Roper, at the request of Mrs. Fox, was fixing a shelf in the closet at 18 Wait street that he found a sum of money, either $35 or $55 on the shelf. He examined it and returned it when he found it. Later Mrs. Fox said she was saving money in order to pay the rent. He volunteered to get the money. He pawned a diamond ring and also cashed a check. On Wednesday, March 1 he took that money he had found in the closet and put it in his pocket."

On Monday he paid a visit to his home in Tewksbury and returned to Boston the following day. On the following day he learned that the date of the bowling match between Martel and Walsh, which was supposed to be held on Thursday night, would take place that night and he started for Lowell, going from Boston to Reading by train and thence by electric car to Lowell. He was taken ill on the electric car and got off at Chandler's turnout and subsequently went to Lowell. He left Lowell on the 9:50 o'clock train, the same train that the friends of Walsh, the bowler, came down on. Upon arriving in Boston he went to the New Richmond hotel, arriving there shortly before 11 o'clock. Later he accompanied Mrs. Fox to the house at 18 Wait street.

Mrs. Fox was very anxious that he should go to work. He said that he had secured his job at the flower market. He went into town at about 12:30. He took the money from the closet and put it in his pocket and attended the theatre. He returned after the theatre and played cards with Dorothy. Later he played solitaire and also attended the furnace. He started from Wait street about twenty minutes of eleven for the Richmond hotel to visit Mrs. Fox. He saw Mr. Lynch and remembered that he owed him $2 and pulling the money out of his pocket paid him. That was part of the money that belonged to Mrs. Fox. He had $35 of the $55 when he left the house for he had placed $20 in a place in the pantry which he later gave her to pay the rent. He placed $23 of that money under a rug.

"On Thursday morning he left the house between 9 and 9:30 for a barber shop. The place was filled and he started to return and as he was passing through the street he saw a man on a news stand containing an account of the murder of his father. He tried to get his home on the telephone but was unable to do so. He then returned to the house but said nothing about the matter to Mrs. Fox for he had previously said that his father was dead and he was wearing a black crepe on his arm. Florence Elliott went to the Fox apartments a short time later and with a paper showed it to Roper and Mrs. Fox."

Lawyer Wilson then told of Roper's arrest at his home and his subsequent arrest and transfer to the police.

"Albert J. Roper will take the stand and tell his story. We will also produce a witness to show that the defendant was not on the car in charge of Conductor Mack on Wednesday night, March 1. This witness has been allowed to leave the city. He saw a young man talking to the motor man in the front vestibule of the car and he is positive that the person was not the defendant. We will also produce witnesses to show where he was at certain times. We will also produce a witness to show that a blue suit on the day of March 1 and that it was a blue and not a brown hat that he wore."

Roper Testifies

Albert J. Roper, the defendant, was the first witness called. He testified as follows:

"My name is Albert J. Roper. I stand for James. I was born at Albany, N. Y., on March 8, 1890. Later we moved to Tewksbury."

"When did you start to work in your father's greenhouse?"

"Always worked there on my vacations."

"What did you do?"

"Principally picking and packing. At some time you went to work in the Boston flower market?"

"Yes."

Witness then described the location of the market, what his duties were and the method used by florists in purchasing flowers from the market.

"How many times a week did you attend the market?"

"Not more than four days."

"What were the average receipts per day?"

"Between $50 and $75, according to the amount that was shipped to Boston."

"How long did you continue to go to the market?"

"For about a year after that." The defendant said he was married on March 15, 1912, and went to board at North Chelmsford and later went to Lowell to live, residing in Branch place.

A few months after his marriage he returned to work for his father in the Boston market. He took the 5:40 train out of Lowell every morning, the flowers were placed on the train at East Billerica and upon arriving at Boston they were taken across the city in an express wagon.

He told of his rooming at Mrs. Fox's house at 18 Wait street for which he paid $5 a week.

Early in October of last year he returned to work at his father's greenhouse. He received $5 a week and board and also the board of his child. His wife was working in a hospital at Westboro, Mass. Witness said he went to Boston almost every Saturday afternoon and as a general rule visited Mrs. Fox.

"What were your relations with your father?"

"They were very pleasant."

"Can't you explain that a little better?"

"He was my best friend," said the witness and as he finished the answer the tears started to drop from his eyes.

Recess.

"Did you know Louis Smith?"

"Yes, he was my father's particular chum."

"On February 21, what time did you leave your home in Tewksbury?"

"Where did you go to?"

"Mitchell the tailor's, in Lowell."

"What did you go there for?"

"To have a black band put on my coat sleeve."

Witness said that on February 5th he told Mrs. Fox that his father was dead. He mentioned the day that the funeral was going to take place and Mrs. Fox told Mr. Vanderberg who lived upstairs and the latter sent a wreath. I was in Tewksbury on the day the wreath arrived and after being notified that there was a box at the railroad station I went there and got the box and took it to the greenhouse and upon opening it found it contained a wreath. Chester took the wreath into the house where it remained until the police took it away, I believe.

"My father had heard of the rumor of his death in the Boston market and he questioned me as to whether or not I had started the rumor, and I said I had. He asked me my reason for doing so and I told him that I had told that story to Mrs. Fox because I wanted to get rid of her."

Relative to the finding of the $55 witness said: "On Wednesday, February 23, Mrs. Fox asked me to fix a Morris chair and a shelf in the closet at 18 Wait street. While taking the shelf out I found an envelope containing money, the envelope dropping to the floor where I pulled the shelf out. After I repaired the shelf I replaced the envelope containing the money on the shelf."

Witness had talked with Mr. Vanderberg later on and the latter asked him if the wreath arrived safely and he answered "yes" but said nothing about his father not being dead.

"On February 26 Mrs. Fox told me that she did not have enough of money to pay the rent and I said I would give it to her."

"What did you do the following day, Sunday?"

"I went to speak to Mr. Vanderberg until Mrs. Fox came home from work. Dorothy said that the housekeeper had slapped her face and the housekeeper was discharged."

"Did you ever talk to Mrs. Fox about marriage?"

"Yes."

"How often?"

"Several times."

"Did you tell her that you had applied for a divorce from your wife in October and it would become absolute in six months?"

"Yes."

Continuing, witness said: "I went to Tewksbury Monday night, Feb. 23. Road as far as Reading on the train and then took the electric car. Tim Mack was the conductor on the car. I got off at Pleasant street. I wore a brown suit, blue soft hat and a rain coat."

Upon getting off the car I went directly home, reaching there just before 9 o'clock. I spoke to my mother and sister. I told my mother that I was going to return to Boston the next morning and she said she did not like the idea of my going back.

I asked for my father, and my mother said that he was in bed. I slept in the room with Chester, the place where I always slept when at home. I got up about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and left about 10 o'clock for Boston, reaching there about noon.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS
ON THE INCREASE

There were two cases of infantile paralysis discovered in Lowell this week though but one was reported. The reason that the second case was not given publicity was due to the fact that the patient had well recovered before it became known that it was a case of infantile paralysis. In the board of health's tabulated report for the week, however, two cases of infantile paralysis are reported under the head of "infectious diseases."

The board of health will have new figures to do on its weekly reports as it will have to reckon with an increased population as recently given by the bureau of labor and statistics. For the last few years the total number of deaths, etc., have been figured on the basis of a population of 106,294 and the rate hereafter, or until a still later report is received from the bureau of labor and statistics, will be 107,378. DESPERATE FIND BULLET
FIGHTING ON SOMME FRONT
IN HEAD
OF MRS.
SMALL

Desperate fighting has been in progress along the northern end of the Somme front, where the British have recently made important inroads upon German positions south of the Ancre.

German Counter Attacks

London today reports heavy counter attacks by the Germans near the Stuffs redoubt and the Hessian trench and declares that a division of the new British army acquitted itself creditably in beating off the Germans.

French Advance

Further down the line towards the Somme the French have resumed their attacks, pushing further a wedge into the German lines in the region of Rancourt. The new French advance, according to Paris, was scored by means of hand grenade operations north of Rancourt.

Heavy British Losses

The British lost heavily in the fighting on the Somme front during September. This is indicated by the casualty lists which show the casualties in all fronts during the month to have been nearly 120,000 officers and men or at the rate of more than 3800 a day.

Bulgarian Success

In Macedonia the Bulgarians report a success in the Kalmakau region near the Serbian border, north of Lake Ostrovo, where a trench of the main Serbian position was captured after a Serbian attack had been repulsed. No important changes in the situation elsewhere in Macedonia or in Dobruja are announced.

Quiet On Russian Front

Petrograd reports that there have been no important happenings either on the Russian front or in the Caucasus.

President Wilson's Lucky Day Is Friday, The 13th.

Small Refuses to Talk

Under orders from counsel, Small, today refused to talk further of his wife's death. Previously he had discussed with apparent freedom the circumstances entering into his three marriages, some of which had brought him into public notice.

WILSON SPURNS AID OF "DISLOYAL" AMERICANS

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 30.—President Wilson made it plain yesterday that he wanted no "disloyal" American aid to his administration. He expressed indignation, however, over a telegram from Jeremiah A. O'Leary, of New York, president of the American Truth Society, accusing him of being pro-British and saying he had failed to obtain compliance with American rights.

The president sent Mr. O'Leary a short telegram, which officials indicated Mr. Wilson had desired to put in stronger language. His message follows:

"Your telegram received. I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody else vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them."

Mr. O'Leary's telegram, given out by the president, follows:

"Again we greet you with a popular approval of your pro-British policy. Last year from the 23rd New York congressional district, and now from your own state and from the voters of your own party, Senator Martine won because the voters of New Jersey do not want any trucking to the British empire, nor do they approve of dictatorship over congress."

"Your foreign policies, your failure to secure compliance with all American rights, your leniency with the British empire, your approval of war loans, the ammunition traffic, are issues in this campaign. Do you know that William S. Bennett, a republican congressman, ran in the democratic primaries in the 23rd New York congressional district and polled 36 per cent of the total democratic vote against his regular democratic opponent? Anglophiles and British interests may control newspapers, but they don't control votes. The people may be readers, but they are not followers of the newspapers."

"When, sir, will you respond to these evidences of popular disapproval of your policies by actions? The Martine election and Bennett vote prove you have lost support amongst democrats."

"Every vote for Martine was a vote against you as a democratic politician. The vote for Mr. Bennett in the democratic primaries in the 23rd congressional district."

LEADERS NOW YOUTH HANGS ADMIT STRIKE BY 45 MINUTES A FAILURE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Probability of a general sympathetic strike in aid of the traction employees who quit their places on Sept. 6 lessened last night with the announcement that the local Brewery Workers' union, whose 500 members struck in response to the call of the conference of labor leaders, had voted to return to work.

Officials of the union issued a statement in which it was said developments proved that organized labor will not act in concert in behalf of the "carmen."

Organizations of subway and elevated road motormen will continue to operate as usual, it was announced yesterday by L. G. Griffith, third assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in charge of the work in this city.

The Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees yesterday took steps to distribute strike benefits among the striking carmen. It was announced by James H. Vaher, general counsel of the association.

Sixteen persons were injured, one seriously, in a rear-end collision between two cars in the Bronx yesterday. One car was standing still when the other, said to have been operated by a strikebreaker, crashed into it. The motorman of the rear car jumped from his post, it is said, and disappeared.

Marked improvement in surface car traffic was reported yesterday, with subway and elevated lines operating on normal schedules.

Ferryboats of the New York Central Railroad company, plying between Manhattan and New Jersey, were tied up during the rush hours last night by a strike of 150 employees on the boats. The latest labor difficulty in this city resulted from the men's demand for shorter hours and higher pay. The strike has been in progress since it was said with the traction situation.

Thousands of commuters gathered at the two Manhattan ferry stations of the company and demanded boats until the police reserves were called out. Then they left the city for their homes in New Jersey over round-about routes.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES"? The Simple Juices Of Apples, Oranges, Figs and Prunes Transformed Into A Medicine Which Relieves All Diseases Of Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Skin.

The value of fruit juices, in preventing and relieving disease, has been recognized for centuries.

The objections to using fresh fruit as a cure for disease are, 1st, the high cost of fruit, particularly in winter; 2nd, the difficulty of eating enough fruit to do any permanent good. Some years ago, however, a prominent English physician in Ottawa, Canada, began a series of experiments in an effort to find some practical and economical way to utilize the valuable medicinal properties of fruit.

He found that the juice is the curative part of fruit. Now, fruit juice consists of 91 parts water and 9 parts solid matter. Of the solid matter found in the juice, 1 part is an exceedingly bitter substance which is the active or medicinal agent. After exhaustive tests, this physician learned that apples, oranges, figs and prunes give the best results—that these four fruits contain all the medicinal principles of all other fruits, and contain a higher percentage of this bitter principle. He combined these four fruit juices and then forced an additional atom of the bitter substance (which he secured from the orange peel) into the juices in such a way that a new substance was formed. This new substance was many times more active medicinally than the original bitter substance.

It is this new compound—combined with tonics and antiseptics and made into tablets—that is everywhere known as "FRUIT-A-TIVES". It is the only medicine in the world made from fruit juices, and has proved its value in thousands and thousands of cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Chronic Headaches, and troubles arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is now made in the United States and may be had at druggists or general stores at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ogdensburg, New York.

BREMEN LIFE PRESERVER FOUND

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 30.—A life preserver marked "Bremen" floated ashore yesterday afternoon on the shores of Cape Elizabeth. A bomb from a Zeppelin could have caused little more excitement.

A 14-year-old boy, playing about the beach, snatched the circular bit of canvas as it slipped away on a receding tide. With his find he started home to mother. A father sighted the markings on the preserver and almost instantly the boy was surrounded by a throng of anxious would-be purchasers.

While the finding has created some little excitement here it has all the earmarks of a raw "plant." It will probably develop in a few days that two or three sensation seekers secured the preserver, put the faked marks on it and carefully salted it away to be found later. No seafaring man takes the slightest stock in the story.

Boy Finds It
The Bremen is not a naval vessel, but is of the North German Lloyd line. The life preserver, however, does not carry the name of the vessel, and the "Wilhelmshafen" added shows the fakeness of the belt.

Frederick Leighton, 14-year-old son of Peter Leighton of 124 Brackett street, Westboro, was the boy who found the preserver. Playing on the beach, he saw the white canvas and out of the water in search of shells. The floating bit of white canvas attracted him and he waded out. He threw the preserver on the beach with his pile of shells. A half-hour later he started for home, the preserver hooked over his arm.

"Bremen" appeared on both sides of the canvas, and the lettering attracted a crowd. They offered him a dollar, five dollars, ten dollars for his find. Eventually he became frightened and ran to Fort Williams.

On each side it bore the word "Bremen" in black letters about three inches in height. On each side was evidently the makers' insignia. It read, "Schutz-Mark" (trade mark), and then appeared a German coat of arms. Below this was painted "V. Elling-Hoven." And below was "Wilhelmshafen."

Officials at the fort examined the preserver and found it stained with grease. They believe that it might have been thrown overboard from the much looked for German submersible and had floated ashore.

BRANCH OF CITY LIBRARY ON GORHAM ST. POPULAR

The branch library established by the city in the store Miss Margaret O'Neill in Gorham street near Davis square is a great boon to the people of that section—and especially to the children. From early morning until late at night, the genial proprietress is on hand to meet the wants of patrons, many of whom would not think of going so far as the city library building. Between Miss O'Neill and her patrons there has grown up a strong bond of friendship and sympathy and as she has come to know the personality of the readers she tries to have them read the books that are suited to their temperament. Accordingly, many a request for a sensational book is met by the answer that "it is not in" and Miss O'Neill suggests something better. This branch library was the idea of Miss

O'Neill and though it was at first opposed by the trustees, it has proved both practical and beneficial.

School teachers and parents patronize the library generously and Miss O'Neill tries to have enough varied books in stock to meet all requirements. She usually has from 1000 to 1500 in stock and the average number of volumes which go out varies from 500 to 2000. It requires clerical work and time to keep the records, and the compensation is very slight—only one cent per book or $20 for an average month. In this instance, at least, it cannot be said that the city is not getting a return from the money spent in Boston and other cities where this branch system prevails, the compensation is usually from $10 to $12 per week.

Since the work at the Cartridge shop brought so many young people to this section of the city the demand for books has increased enormously, and any who go to the branch library speak warmly of the attention and service they find therein. Miss O'Neill has shown interest, intelligence and tact in her work and should she give it up, there would be widespread disappointment in that part of the city.

FAMOUS TENOR TO SING HERE

Music lovers will be greatly interested in the announcement that Leon Rice, the noted New York tenor, is to sing in Lowell next Sunday at 8 o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist Church. A. C. Ferrin, learning that Mr. Rice was in this vicinity returning from a vacation spent in Maine and New Hampshire, secured him for a special service of sacred song Sunday at 5 o'clock. He will also sing at the morning service.

This young artist has filled engagements in concert work in almost every city of importance in the United States and Canada, and the press has accorded him unstinted praise.

For several years he was tenor soloist with Trinity Church Corporation, New York—one of the most desirable positions in the metropolis.

He has studied with the best instructors here and abroad, and is regarded as one of America's greatest tenors. Julie Caesar-Rice, pianist, also an artist of international fame, will preside at the piano and organ.

Sunday morning Mr. Rice will sing "The Ninety and Nine," by Campion, a song he has made famous in four countries, and at 5 o'clock will sing a program of sacred songs that appeal to all. Dr. Hills of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, says, "Mr. Rice is a singer of exquisite quality, and artistic in the highest degree." Dr. Ewing of Trinity Church, Worcester, Mass., writes: "No singer who has appeared in Worcester in any day has so captured the music critics and music lovers."

Everybody is invited. A silver offering will be taken.

NORMAL SCHOOL SOCIAL

The usual "Welcome Social" to the junior class of the State Normal school was held in the gym at 1 o'clock yesterday. The seniors, as hostesses, were all in costume, and they also furnished the talent. Teachers from the Bartlett school and the faculty also joined in this first welcome. About 50 were present. Dancing was enjoyed until 3, and during intermission refreshments were served.

Decayed Teeth and Unclean Mouth Invite Infectious Disease

"Come in, the water's fine!" exclaim the happy bathers to the friends they have preceded in the water.

And in much the same exuberant fashion does the army of little health-destroying germs shout a welcome invitation to millions of other disease-breeding friends to join them in the ravaging of an unclean mouth.

Disease germs thrive on uncleanness and decay and a mouthful of bad teeth is indeed their "happy hunting ground"—but the unfortunate person who provides their pleasure destroys his own through lost health.

Infectious diseases are best and most surely warded off by protecting the mouth—the gateway to the body; cleanliness here and sound teeth are the finest kinds of protection against great or small ills.

Now is especially the right time for such protection; the cost will be far too reasonable to be compared with the amount of benefit you will receive and the work, of course, will be guaranteed to satisfy.

O'CONNELL GALVIN WELL KNOWN WRITER DEAD

NOTED JOURNALIST AND LECTURER DIED SUDDENLY—SKETCH OF HIS CAREER

The news of the demise of W. O'Connell Galvin, the well known newspaper man of Boston, was received with deep sorrow by his many friends in this city. He died at St. Elizabeth's hospital in Brighton Thursday night following an attack of acute uraemic poisoning.

Mr. O'Connell lectured before the Knights of Columbus in this city last year and had attended several meetings of the United Irish league some years ago. He was an ardent supporter of Mr. Redmond and the parliamentary policy of advancing the Irish cause. He was an able speaker, lecturer and writer and a man of sterling character.

He was born in Cork. His paternal uncle, Daniel J. Galvin, was lord mayor of Cork in 1851, 1852 and 1853. His cousin, Harry Galvin, son of the former lord mayor, was city collector of Cork.

He worked on the staff of the Cork Examiner, the Liverpool Mercury and the London Telegraph. His political writings attracted much notice. He was a supporter of Parnell and Gladstone. He wrote many of the proceedings of parliament, and became intimately acquainted with the leaders of the Irish cause. He was a personal friend of John Redmond, the Irish parliamentary leader.

He came to the United States in 1889. After working on the staff of the New York Sun he went to Worcester, where he was employed on the Worcester Spy, then considered one of the best edited papers in the country.

He lectured considerably on Irish and church themes. He enjoyed the friendly acquaintance of the late United States Senator Dorr, and was highly esteemed by the late Bishop Connolly of Worcester and Los Angeles.

Mr. Galvin came to Boston in 1895 to work on the staff of the Boston Herald. He later became a member of the Boston American staff. He represented his paper abroad twice. He wrote his personal impressions of the great home rule debate in the British parliament in 1910, and later he represented the paper at the ceremonies attending the elevation of

STOP AND THINK; POPULAR GOODS MUST HAVE MERIT

Why Does Tanlac Sell at the Rate of Five Million Bottles a Year?—Matroni Gives His Reasons After Taking the Master Medicine.

The production of Tanlac, the National Tonic, now is at the rate of five million bottles per year.

Stop and think. Of course, it pays to advertise—pays tremendously when the product advertised has absolutely no competition and "makes good" to the last word. But do you think advertising alone would create a demand for Tanlac approximating 100,000 bottles a week?

Don't you agree that merit so extraordinary as to stamp Tanlac as absolutely unique in its powers to "make good" is necessary to make such a record.

Tanlac is a tissue builder, appetizer and invigorant. It reaches with its reconstructive qualities those ills of the stomach, liver and kidneys, and catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, that are the common maladies of the day—the strength sapping lethargy—creating ailments that "get your nerve" whether you be merchant, or artisan, employer or employee, man or woman.

Albert Matroni, a tailor living at 311 High Street, Holyoke, Mass., has suffered from a stomach trouble, and was in a general rundown condition. Mr. Matroni has been taking Tanlac and tells of the remarkable results obtained. In full Mr. Matroni said:

"I have suffered from stomach trouble, had a tired, weak feeling all the time, and did not feel like working. I could not eat very much and always felt shaky in the morning when I would get up."

"I saw Tanlac advertised and since taking it I can now eat fine, I feel much stronger and I am more willing to work, as I do not have that tired feeling in the morning."

"I am now very glad to recommend Tanlac and to allow the use of my name as a testimonial to know how good it has made me feel."

Tanlac is a purely vegetable. The ingredients are brought from many parts of the world. In the Tanlac laboratories these are compounded with absolute accuracy so as to obtain the high standard of efficiency that is maintained in the National Tonic.

Weak rundown men and women, who need better digestions, more strength and a toning up of the nervous system will find Tanlac an ideal tonic, appetizer and invigorant.

Tanlac is now being introduced and explained daily in Lowell, at The Lowell Pharmacy, 632 Merrimack street, where the Tanlac Man will gladly tell you of its merits.

STRIKERS STREWED TACKS IN PATH OF AUTOS

VICIOUS MODE OF PREVENTING TRANSPORTATION OF STRIKE BREAKERS

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—About 50 owners of private automobiles who were driving along the Revere beach parkway in Chelsea last evening were the innocent victims of the strikers of the A. G. Walton shoe factory, who devised a new scheme to embarrass the transportation of strikebreakers.

The strikers covered the boulevard with tacks from Everett avenue to Second street, Chelsea, a distance of nearly half a mile. As the private automobiles went along tires began to puncture, and in several instances more than one of the tires on the same machine were put out of action.

Next week, starting with a special bus on Monday, the Emersons will present "Sinners," a great William A. Brady drama which ran for over a year at the Playhouse in New York City and which is the success of the world's stage.

Special arrangements were made with Mr. Brady for the production of the drama after several weeks' deliberation for arrangements have already been made to offer the attraction in Boston later at two dollar prices.

"Sinners" is a play with a punch and purpose and while it treats on a delicate subject, there is not the slightest thing that will offend. It tells the story of a young man, who leaves the path to fame and fortune through New York. She believes that she cannot rise quickly in a small town and she goes to New York. The story that Owen Davis has woven around this wonderful little girl is indeed pleasing.

Ivan Miller, Inez Ragan, James Hayden, James Galloway, Millard Vincent, Frank Wright, David Baker, Ernest East, Gertrude Shirley, Gladys McLean and other members of the company will be seen in their best roles of the season while a superb scenic production will be offered with all new and splendid settings.

Seats should be secured early for this play. Make reservations now by phoning 251 and arrange to see the play as early in the week as possible for bigger crowds than ever will flock to the Opera House next week.

Monday is bon bon matinee and every lady who attends and occupies a reserved seat will be given a choice box of sweets.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde, the eminent London comedians, who are at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week are generally rated as the best performers in their special line on the variety stage. Only one night of the variety stage is left in the season, and by means of his eloquent hands and fingers project pictures of animals onto the screen, but he gives very good likeness to the animals.

George Washington and President Woodrow Wilson. The Three Avollos, wonderful xylphonists, also contribute much of pleasure to the audience by their artistic playing. The use of a huge bass xylphone in the selections adds much to the general tone effect. Jim and Marion, the duo of the ordinary comedians, and the Great Johnston is easily one of the best comedians ever seen on a local stage. "In the Orchard" is a comedy. Dolman, Dot Alberts and a lot of girls, is a neat musical comedy, and White and White are boy dancers. Prescott, assisted by Hope Eden, is an unusual telepathist. Phone 25.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE The mad—blindly mad pursuit of happiness has ruined many a home which would have happily flourished in more moderate circumstances. This is the vital moral which was gathered by all who attended the Merrimack Square theatre and saw Frances Nelson and her company in "The Almighty Dollar." Cook With Gas

There was never yet a woman who once cooked with gas and went back to coal and wood—if she could get gas. Because the fire is always ready; she needed no kindling; didn't have to wait until the fire burned; had no dirt, dust nor ashes to clean up, and the heat could be regulated to the proper temperature—and it stayed there. Gas is an all-round fuel. It is efficient, economical and labor saving. We'll tell you more about it if you'll call.

THE SICKABED LADY

Nurse tells me she has had great success in treating summer complaints in this way, especially with children. First give the child a dose of castor oil. This is a laxative and also helps to clear the bowels. Then remove all milk and use only barley water or some one of the prepared foods without milk. After the oil acts prepare some barley in this way: In a tumbler of water put a teaspoonful of barley, and give a teaspoonful of this mixture once an hour. Be sure if you use barley water to prepare it fresh every day and keep it people warning it as used.

People of a nervous disposition need a nourishing, nerve building diet. Eggs served in various ways, milk, cereals, etc., should be a standard part of the diet. Be careful of a lavish use of tomatoes or red meats.

Supply your table with quantities of fruit and fresh vegetables and serve bread, biscuits, frequently. Should you have a tendency to obesity, be careful to avoid an excess of starch and sweets. A diet must be wholesome, and it is better to use spices and condiment in moderation than to let your table lack flavor from overzeal in leaving everything that is not preeminently wholesome.

Nurse says a simple ailment at taking a child already out of health or "below par" may—and frequently does—have results out of all proportion in seriousness to its specific description.

For instance, quite a mild cold in the head which a healthy child would throw off almost at once, suffering no more or other lead on to bronchitis, pneumonia or other chest troubles, when the little subject is really in a weakened condition. This is a matter of common know-edge, and the kindred fact of the common cold onward will find a happy hunting ground in the system, already weakened from various causes must also be insisted upon. It has a really important bearing upon the health and development of children, especially in the quite early years of life up till the fifth birthday certainly—when any illness has far more dangerous results than at a later period.

Nurse says it is a fact that every nurse knows that the cheerfulness and brave heart of the one who is nursing win half the battle in many sicknesses. So, aside from the undisputed fact that it is the part of good breeding to bring nothing but a happy face and a cheerful manner into the sickroom, cheerfulness is a curative measure that is actually one of the sick.

What a difference there is in the way people act in the sickroom. There are some persons—those we care for, too—who sit there to see when we are ill, and there are others whose bright faces, cheerful voices and reassuring manners seem like cool water to a parched throat.

Remember that the waking hours of those who are sick can have but little occupation, and this occupation should be spread lightly with short breaks for rest and repose. Of course, the first and foremost consideration in time of sickness is the welfare of the patient, and therefore, there are few demands made upon her in the rules of sickroom etiquette. But for all that there are a few precepts which the patient ought to bear in mind.

Nurse says to save doctor's bills never lean with the back against anything that is cold, never take a warm bath and then go out into the cold, never omit regular bathing. Unless the skin

CULTIVATE HABITS OF THRIFT

Evidence of Successful Business Proves That Saving Pays—Only the Thrifty Are in a Position to Enjoy Life's Blessings

By Jacques H. DeLamere, Copyright 1916—All Rights Reserved

Unless the evidence of men in business is "perjured testimony," the only great difficulty in the way of enjoying life's blessings rests in the first stages. If one will persist in saving until the savings amount to something, one's interest and self-confidence grows stronger—and the habit of thrift is formed.

"Thrift," recently remarked Mr. Edward A. Brooks, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, "is neither miserliness nor niggard parsimony; nor does it mean the absence of pleasure. It is indeed the thrifty, saving, provident persons who not only have pleasures and enjoyments, but can continue to have them."

Prodigality and wastefulness do not necessarily mean pleasure even for the present, and probably none for the future. Thrift means the getting a dollar's worth of pleasure from the expenditure of a dollar, and not the wasteful attitude of spending money that tomorrow we would be glad to have returned to us. We probably waste from American habits today, enough to feed an army.

It is the thrifty people of the community who support its institutions; who give its benefactions; who are supporting not only their own families, but the hospitals, the churches, or the institutions of the state; who are paying its taxes; who are citizens upon whom the state, society and the church must rely.

Money, whether for the individual or the nation, is not the most important thing. It does not make the most important people unless they are frugally go with it.

The nation's spenders are not rich; the nation's savers are not poor. The important part of the nation, but they are a menace to it. They were in Babylon, in Assyria, in Persia, in Greece, in Rome, in France at the time of the Revolution, and they are in America today. The strength of Rome lay not in the time when the Romans were extravagantly spending their millions in feasts and games; when people were fleeing from the country to the city; when young millionaires spent their time at the bath and in feeding upon nightingales' tongues, and upon oysters brought in wet moss from the shores of Britain; and when the soldiers were replaced by hirelings; but in the time when the Roman farmer was his citizen and statesman, and depended not upon others but upon himself for performing the duties of the family and the state.

Economy is Becoming Fashionable Just now the atmosphere is filled with talk of economy. It is becoming the fashion. We are improving daily—and we are not economizing by proxy, because we are beginning to realize that economy is a virtue. But for whatever the reason, the world-wide influence for thrift is making itself felt in America, and Americans will be all the better for it. What is really needed now is to pattern one's personal expenditures after the ideals of business methods—put a stop to waste and devote more attention to the art of buying.

So important has become the subject of thrift that a great international congress on the subject was held in San Francisco, in connection with the Panama-Pacific exposition. Governor Johnson, of California, which state is spoken of by the American Banker's Magazine as noted for its "high per capita of savings deposits," issued a proclamation naming the closing day of this congress, August 12th, as "Thrift Day."

And in the city of Lowell too this great movement is beginning to manifest itself. Workmen who formerly were prone to spend the major portion of their salaries in satisfying a desire for pleasure, are today laying aside small sums of money each week to provide, while money is good, for that inevitable "rainy day" which is bound to come to us all.

Mr. Thomas H. Murphy, treasurer of the Washington Savings Institution of Lowell, when asked to state his version of thrift, remarked to the writer:

"Thrift, I take it, is the determination to live with a margin for future advancement; to earn a little more than one spends; to spend a little less than one earns, meanwhile to get the value in strength, satisfaction, or in worthy return for the money one feels free to spend. The spirit of thrift is opposed to waste on the one hand, and to recklessness upon the other.

"It does not involve stinginess, which is an abuse of thrift, nor does it require that each item of savings should be a financial investment. The money that is spent in education of one's self or of his family, in travel, in music, or in art, or in helping others, if it brings real return in personal development or in better understanding of the world we live in, is in accord with the spirit of thrift.

"On the other hand, the money spent in frivolous pleasures, or in modes of life which leave us weaker in power of effort, or dulled in power of enjoyment, are contrary to the ideas of the movement for thrift. Thrift is one of the oldest virtues, but is one of the most difficult to practice, and its precept cannot be brought before the public too often."

Only the Thrifty Man is Independent

"When the first savage," continued Mr. Murphy, "put aside the club that he found useful, instead of throwing it away, trusting to have another when needed, thrift began, for thrift is simply foreseeing wants and providing for them. Throughout the ages there have been those who forego and provided, and those that met trouble unprepared and went down under it. Famine, winter, flood and living enemies came upon these people; the thrifty lived and saved some of the unthrifty starved, but the mass of the unthrifty disappeared."

"In our day one great means by which the individual provides to meet the dangers and difficulties of tomorrow is that of saving money. In time of trouble the man who has no means must be cared for by others, but the thrifty man of eight and hearing of hands and feet, and he still has the wherewithal to care for himself as in the days of his strength. The thrifty man is his own man; the unthrifty man may see the time when he lives only by the grace of others."

An Easy System of Saving

A recent periodical tells of a man who started a bank account and deposited sixty-six dollars in it a year, by beginning with a single cent and doubling every day of the week. For example, on Monday he laid aside the one cent, on Tuesday two cents, Wednesday four cents, Thursday eight cents, Friday 16 cents, Saturday 32 cents and Sunday 64 cents. Adding this all together, he deposited $127 and on Monday started again with one cent.

Another man, hearing of it, worked the same plan, only backward—that is, Monday was his pay day, and like most others, the farther he got from pay-day the less money he had, so he began on Monday with 64 cents, Tuesday 32 cents, Wednesday 16 cents, Thursday 8 cents, Friday 4 cents, Saturday 2 cents and Sunday $127 to put in the bank on Monday morning.

Another case was that of a printer who dearly loved bargains. He was always loitering at the shop, of $2.00 shoes he had bought for $2.62; or the cheap neckties he found, or of how he waited to save carfare. But the foreman of the shop—a really saving man—who had a bank account of his own, criticized him one day. Said the foreman to him: "You never actually save any money; you only think you do. Why don't you salt away in the bank all the money you gain in your bargains? Then you'd be saving, not talking."

The bargain hunter accepted the idea. After that, whenever he saved 40 cents for a pair of shoes, it went into his "savings pocket," when he walked to the office instead of taking the car he took the bus, and when he had a neat little savings bank account, and it is now as much pride to him as his bargain.

Either of these plans will help save towards a house and lot or to start in business. They are novel, but they are well worth trying by anyone who has never saved in the past—and they are picturesque hints to the rising generation.

Make the World Your Debtor

Civilization, looked at upon its economic side, is simply thrift and nothing else. "To produce without waste and thus produce cheaply; to consume efficiently; to conserve for the future that which is not needed for the present—these are the maxims of thrift and the glories of civilization."

In the everyday spending of the people, much runs to waste. To conserve this power and apply it to the machinery of industry and in the daily routine of life's endeavor, is one of the objects of civilization. This may be accomplished only through personal foresight and self-control.

The unthrifty man is compelled to and his life selfishly, for he has no money to give either for any public cause or for any friend's need; the thrifty man can take all the world has to offer, for he has made the world his debtor.

Ancient Poem on Thrift

In the opening years of the Christian Era, lived Marcus Valerius Martialis, known as the poet martial, "the first of the grammaticists." As a young man he obtained the patronage of the Roman Emperor and later married a lady of wealth. His life, therefore, was one of ease and luxury, and of such conditions as poor people have to practice, he knew nothing. But he avoided the riotous spending and waste which ruined so many Romans and ultimately destroyed their great empire. His fifty-third epigram, as translated by Abram Cowley, the famous English poet, is as follows:

"Would you be free? 'Tis your chief wish, you say; Come on, I'll show thee, friend, the way. If to no feasts abroad thou lovest to go, Whilst bounteous God does bread at home bestow; If thou, the goodness of thy clothes dost prize By thine own use, and not by other's eyes; If, (only safe from weathers) thou canst dwell In a small house—but convenient shell; If thou without a sigh or golden wish, Canst lope upon thy beechen bowl And dish; If in thy mind such power and greatness be, The Persian king's a slave compared with thee."

Why Not Try This Plan?

Put 10 cents away on Monday; 15 cents on Tuesday; 20 on Wednesday; 25 on Thursday and 30 on Friday. That's just an even dollar saved. Bring it to us, open a bank account and each week make it a point to save the same amount every five days without fail. Before Christmas you'll have a pretty nice little start, eh? Why not begin today? We'll pay you interest on it.

THE ROSE FAIRY PARTY

Once upon a time, the Rose Fairy sent for all of her friends to come and see her roses. They were very beautiful and she wanted all of her friends to see them. She wrote her invitations to them, and the Golden Bumblebees carried them around for her. She had a new dress that was made of a golden sunbeam and she carried a black-eyed susan for a sunshade, while she sat in the heart of a wonderful pink rose to receive her guests.

First came the stately white lilies and they passed in front of the Rose Fairy, bowing as they did, so they came geraniums of all colors and shades, and then following these came pansies, hand in hand, and the blue forget-me-nots, and after the bluebells, the daisies, the water lilies, and every flower you could think of.

Last came four bluebirds drawing a golden coach for the Rose Fairy to ride in. After they had seen the roses they had a concert in the willow grove just beyond the garden and all of the birds helped to make it a success. After that they had such things to eat, and those that wanted to were given a ride on the back of the Golden Bumblebee.

When the sun went down they went to the rose garden again and danced until the moon came up, and that made the place seem like fairyland. When it was time to go home the Rose Fairy told her guests that they could use her carriage and the Golden Bumblebee offered to take some on his back, while the rest said it was too nice to ride and they would walk.

The next day, when Rose and Fred, two little children that lived quite near the Rose Fairy, went out into the rose garden they saw the grass all trodden down. The roses looked very tired and some of them were still asleep.

"It looks," said Fred, "just as if there had been a party, doesn't it, Rose?" And Rose thought so, too. They never knew how near they had been to the Rose Fairy party but the roses all nodded their heads and looked very wise when they heard the children guessing what had happened to the rose garden.

The excitement caused by some coming pleasure, for instance, may send the temperature several degrees in a high spring but otherwise quite healthy child. Indigestion and improper food may cause a rise to fever point, although nothing is seriously wrong.

On the other hand, a child may be seriously ill while the temperature chart records but little variation from the normal. The temperature changes of children are, in fact, very puzzling. A mother need not be alarmed by feverishness as a rule, because in most cases it is due to slight causes which would produce no effect on a grown person. But if it does not pass away in the course of a few hours or during the night she should call in a doctor.

Emotional excitement and thunders from contaminated food, and in the case of infants, improper feeding. The milk, for instance, may contain too much fat or sugar or starch (flour, etc.) In the case of older children, indigestible vegetables, and fruits are sometimes to blame.

WORK OF BRITISH SURGEONS

PARIS, Sept. — British surgeons have treated 16,000 cases and performed 45 operations on civilian patients in the zones of their armies in France since the beginning of the war.

They had not only to treat all the current ills of the region but were required to combat the epidemics that followed war. All the inhabitants of the British zone were vaccinated against typhoid and special hospitals were created for children.

A considerable number of civilians wounded in shell fire also require their attention.

FOR BETTER TOBACCO

MANILA, P. I., Sept. — In line with the insular government's plan to stimulate the production of better tobacco in the Philippines, a tobacco testing station is soon to be established in the Cagayan valley, the center of the tobacco growing industry of the islands. This is only one of many steps following the dispatch of A. B. Power, chief clerk of the internal revenue bureau, to the United States, to embark on an advertising campaign to boost the sales of Philippine cigars in the homeland.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"What is considered the correct length of time for a person in mourning for a member of the family to refrain from attending public places of amusement?" asked Master.

"After six months or a year one may in a quiet way attend concerts, etc., if one desires," answered her city cousin Helen.

"Is it proper for a young man after becoming engaged, to sometimes associate with former friends and acquaintances; particularly, if they are of the opposite sex?" inquired James.

"There is no reason why a man should drop any of his men friends after he is engaged, but as to women the case is different. Unless they are in his confidence it is not fair for an engaged man to show attention to other girls," answered his Uncle Henry.

"When writing letters to strangers should I sign my name with the prefix Miss. When I omit it I often receive answers addressed to 'Mrs.'?" questioned Grace.

"One should use 'Miss' or 'Mrs.' before the name in parentheses," said her friend, helpfully.

"What is the calling hour for formal calls?" asked Alice.

"The hours for calling are between 3 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. A formal call does not exceed 15 or 20 minutes," answered her teacher.

"Is it proper to have cards engraved 'Mr. and Mrs.'?" inquired Mrs. Green.

"The old custom has been of having 'Mr. and Mrs.' This simplifies matters generally, as a woman leaves one of these cards and one of her husband's cards when making a call," said her aunt.

"Is it proper to eat corn from the cob or should it be cut off and eaten with the fork?" asked Marjorie.

"Corn on the cob is considered finger food, although fortunately corn on the cob is served only at family dinner or small informal affairs because the feat of eating this very delicious vegetable gracefully cannot be attained," answered her aunt.

JOHN M. PARKER, MOOSE CANDIDATE, FOR WILSON

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 29.—John M. Parker, progressive nominee for vice president, has offered to speak in support of President Wilson in the campaign. His offer has been accepted by the president. He will make speeches in Ohio, New York and New Jersey. The president received a letter from him today according to an announcement by administration officials.

ROPER MURDER TRIAL

Close of Yesterday's Session

The testimony given yesterday afternoon and not published in the early edition of The Sun is given below:

-Supt. Welch, of the Lowell police department relating what Albert J. Roper had said relative to his whereabouts on the night of the murder, testified:

"Speaking about his visit to Lowell on Tuesday night Roper said he did not see any person that he knew. When asked if his folks knew he was in Tewksbury Tuesday night he said not to his knowledge."

"Did he say anything about his father dying prior to March, 17" asked Major Crowley.

"Yes, he said he had told Mrs. Fox that because he said he wanted to get turned over to Supt. Welch. He said that the total amount was $5.75. I was asked where he got it; he refused to answer the question, but later said he had borrowed it.

He admitted that his father was the habit of carrying considerable money on his person and that his father was generally carried in a wallet in the inside pocket of his vest.

Carrying Out Blown

Relative to a diamond ring which had pawned, he said that it had been given to him by his wife last Christmas. He also said that the reason he did not tell Mrs. Fox that he knew his father had been murdered was because she was a very high strung woman.

Witness said that Roper was asking if he had worn a mourning band on his wrist when he answered "No," affirmative, he was asked why he wore it. Roper said, "I just did that carry out the bluff about my father's death."

Exhausted Cross-Examined

"Wasn't he given what is known as the third degree," inquired Mr. Wilson.

"Not that I know of. All-I know about the third degree is what I read in the newspapers."

Considerable time was taken up by Mr. Wilson on the cross-examination in an attempt to shake the testimony.

Wreath had been sent to Tewksbury, and said he thought it was sent by Mr. Vanderberg and that he was told about the death by Mrs. Fox."

Witness said that the defendant did not say anything at that time about giving a $10 gold piece to Mrs. Fox.

Cross Examination

On redirect examination Officer Eustace, said that at no time during the course of the questioning of the defendant at the police station.

"Who did the questioning?"
"Officer Eustace of the state police."
"Are you quite certain that Mr. Roper was informed of his rights?"
"I am positive. He was told so by Mr. Eustace."
"Why did you have to inform him of this?"

"I don't know where he could be," said one informant, but was given to understand that Mr. Eustace did so.

"Do you know of any reason why he should be informed twice?"

"No, I don't."

"Was any effort made to confuse Mr. Roper on that Thursday afternoon?"

That given by Supt. Weiden and Capt. Eustace. Witness told of visiting the house at 16 Wait street and talking away a dress suit, case, containing clothing belonging to Albert J. Roper, an order book, some letters and heads bearing the name of A. Roper.

"Did you or any one else call him a liar?"

"No sir."

"Are you sure?"

"I am positive."

"Did you or anyone else say: I have got the goods on you and you must ask me well confess."

"Positively no."

"He spoke freely?"

"There was no hesitation on his part."

"Did you examine his clothing?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ask him what time he left Boston on Tuesday afternoon?"

"Yes, he said he left the North station at 7 o'clock."

JAMES MURTAGH was handed the card and asked what, if anything, he had done with it. He answered:

"One day last week I went to Roper greenhouses at Tewksbury tried this key in the lock of the door of the greenhouse in back of Roper house. I then took the lock and brought it to Cambridge."

He said that he did not hear A. J. Roper say that his father was his friend.

"Did you call Mr. Roper a liar during the examination at the police station on Thursday or Friday?" was asked.

"No, sir."

"Didn't you whisper or say to him that your father was a liar?"

reaching "and then Watson" in "elephant car" at Reading corner and rode to Mirhach square.

"He told you that he left the car at Chandler's turnout and sat on a stone wall because he was not feeling well?"

"Yes, he said he had been drinking."

At this point, Lawyer Wilson, and

BUILDING ACTIVITY AND REAL ESTATE NEWS

Plans are being made for the erection of a 12-apartment residence at Tyler park, each apartment to contain three rooms, living room, dining room and chamber, or in other words a kitchenette. The building will cost between $35,000 and $40,000, and it is the first of several of these modern apartment residences to be built in this city.

The interior of the building is to be finished in mahogany, red sunwood and rosewood. Each apartment is to consist of three extra large rooms, viz: living room, dining room and chamber. Between the living and dining rooms are combination book cases and china closets with leaded glass doors, which form the base for large square, tiled columns which sustain a beam dropped down from ceilings. Bathrooms are to have porcelain tubs, lavatories and modern shower baths, eyphon closets and vitreous china tanks. Kitchens are to be fitted up with the latest electric or gas cooking ranges, enameled refrigerators and china closets with glass doors. Every kitchenette is provided with lifts from the ground floor and basement, for groceryman, janitor, etc. Janitor service will be furnished. There will be bells to all doors, as well as speaking tubes and telephones.

Still growing and improving is this fine section of Lowell, under the supervision of the Park Land Co. As displayed on this page this company is making a special inducement to those who may become interested within a short time. Convenient arrangements for payments and interest are proffered to all prospects. It seems quite an opportunity to obtain a house lot and prepare a home in a most progressive location, one which, no doubt, will be held in high esteem among residents. An agent from the company will be on the property Saturday and Sunday afternoons for the purpose of imparting any desired information to the eager inquirer who comes to look around on these days. This is a very central location, and one readily reached by the Andover street cars, which leave the Square every half-hour.

George E. Vozelas, who owns the tract of land between Merrimack and Market streets in Hanover street has started the erection of a three-story building to cost between $8,000 and $10,000.

The Middlesex Co. has started work on the erection of a brick addition, to the east end of a mill occupied by the W. Bagshaw Co. The structure will cost about $5,000.

Joseph Marin is constructing a garage at 204-206 Hall street at a cost of $5,000.

A seven-room cottage, two stories high, is being constructed for Mr. and Mrs. John T. Kelley at 13 Bond street at a cost of $2,000.

The James Co., lessees of the building at the corner of Merrimack and Palmer streets is removing the present entrances of the premises in Merrimack street for the purpose of relocating an entrance in Palmer street and one in Merrimack street. Considerable alterations are also to be made in the interior of the building, the cost of the changes to be about $1,000.

Permits issued during the week in the office of the inspector of buildings are as follows:

To John Hayden for an addition and alterations in the building numbered 120 South street in order to add two small tenements to the building; to the Daniel Cage estate for interior changes and an addition to the property at 12 Chase avenue; to Walter S. Miller for the erection of a garage at 18 Burr street; to Cherry & Webb Co. for the removal of two small windows in the third story of their building at the corner of John and Lee streets and the placing of a large window; to Stanislaus Worziak for the erection of a storage shed at 11 Albion street; to Omer Deziel for the placing of a store in the basement of the building numbered 348 Moody street; to Benjamin Frodson for the erection of a wagon and carriage shed at 42 South Walker street; to Rose E. Since the death of Rufus Gilmore, father of the young man, Edward had tried to induce his mother and sister to move to Winsted where Edward was foreman in a clock factory.

Engaging an apartment there and paying a month's rent in advance, Edward, who was administrator of his father's estate, secured a leave of absence and came to Tolland to move the household effects.

While here, he sold the real estate to Peter Malone of Westfield, taking part payment. The stock and tools were sold to Charles Soules of New Boston and an evidence was made out of the sanction of Mrs. Gilmore and her daughter, who refused to move to Winsted when a truckman drove up to the door to get the goods.

After the truckman had left the premises, it is believed that Edward committed the murders.

John J. Jordan, the nearest neighbor, who lives two miles away, said that the young man had an uncontrollable temper and that insanity was manifested in the family as an evidence of this, he cited the fact that John Gilmore, an uncle, and Lydia Gilmore, 30, a sister, were recently adjudged insane and committed to the Northampton asylum.

The bodies were taken in charge by a Granville undertaker and will be buried in the Tolland cemetery.

This morning he reviewed the Fourth New Jersey regiment of Infantry at Sea Girt and this afternoon he will receive and address members of the young men's democratic clubs from New York.

The New Jersey regiment, recently returned from the Mexican border and because of this fact the president felt a particular interest in it. He reviewed the command on horseback.

Representatives of the democratic national committee arrived here early today to complete the arrangements for the reception of the young democrats who were expected to arrive on special trains at 3 o'clock. The visitors, it is explained, will march from the railroad station to Shadow Lawn, a distance of a mile, led by two bands. The president is prepared to speak to them at 4 o'clock. It is understood that the address will deal with reasons why young men should vote the democratic ticket.

SPEAKER AND CHASE ARE LEADERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—It looks as though Hal Chase and Tris Speaker would carry off big league batting championships this year. With the season to end next week, Chase is four points ahead of his nearest competitor, now Lou McCarty of New York in the National and Speaker is a good 30 points ahead of Cobb in the American. Chase has been playing a great game for Cincinnati. Records printed here today, including the performances of last Wednesday, show he has total bases numbering 241, giving him place in the league second only to Wheat of Brooklyn, who is credited with 253. Chase has stolen 20 bases.

The National's base stealing honors seem destined again to go to McCarty, Philadelphia, who is leading with 58. Plack, Chicago, is ahead in sacrifice hits with 26; Williams, Chicago, in home runs with 12; Burns, New York, in runs scored with 23 and Brooklyn in team hitting with 261.

Leading batters: Chase, Cincinnati, 334; McCarty, Brooklyn-New York, 330; Wheat, Brooklyn, 329; Daubert, Brooklyn, 320; Hinchman, Pittsburgh, 312; Hornsby, St. Louis, 303; Robertson, New York, 303; Stock, Philadelphia, 293; Long, St. Louis, 292; Zimmerman, Chicago-New York, 292.

Cobb will retain the American league base stealing championship even though he loses the batting title, for his record is now 55 thefts far ahead of anybody else, though way behind his 96 for the season of 1915. Eddie Collins has tied Weaver for the lead in sacrifice hits at 41; Jackson is ahead in total bases with 283; Pipp leads in home runs with 11; Cobb in runs scored with 198 and Detroit in club batting with 261.

Leading batters: Speaker, Cleveland, 322; Cobb, Detroit, 322; Jackson, Chicago, 310; Strunk, Philadelphia, 315; B. Collins, Chicago, 307; Gardner, Boston, 306; Veach, Detroit, 300; Felsch, Chicago, 299; Sisler, St. Louis, 297; Bauman, New York, 296.

TIGERS ELIMINATED IN RACE FOR PENNANT

The Tigers cannot even tie the Red Sox now. Should the Boston club lose all of its remaining games, four, and Detroit win the two yet on its schedule, the standing would be: Boston, won 82; lost, 65; Detroit, won 55; lost 56.

The White Sox still have a chance to win. If the Red Sox lose the four games and the White win the four they yet have to play, the figures would be: Chicago, 50-54; Boston, 59-65. The White Sox can tie if they win all four games they have to play, while the Red Sox win one and lose three, or by losing one and winning three, while the Red Sox are losing all four games yet on their schedule. Boston has yet to play one game with New York and three with the Athletics, while all of Chicago's games are with Cleveland. The standing:

| Team | Won | Lost | P.C. |
|---------|-----|------|-------|
| Boston | 59 | 61 | .5933 |
| Chicago | 50 | 54 | .5732 |
| Detroit | 55 | 56 | .5678 |

There was no change in the National league race yesterday, all games which could possibly affect the race for first place being stopped by rain.

TENER UPHOLDS EBBETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The management of the Brooklyn team has been unjustly criticized in the matter of seat prices for the world's series games, as the prices were fixed by the National commission, according to a statement made here yesterday by John K. Tener, president of the National league.

"The prices that have been announced in Brooklyn were determined by the National commission at a meeting in Cincinnati, Sept. 15, to arrange a tentative schedule," Mr. Tener said. "The commission allowed some latitude to the Brooklyn and Detroit clubs in the matter of five dollar seats because of their limited grandstand and box seat capacity and because of the added fact that all seats listed at five dollars in each park were as choice in location as regular box reservations."

PIRATES RELEASE SCOTT

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—The Pittsburgh National league club yesterday released Pitcher James Scott, to the club at Macon, Ga., from which team he was recently obtained. This reduces the roster for the local team to the required limit of thirty-five players.

RED SOX TURN ON YANKEES AND WIN

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Babe Ruth, who is physically equipped for any sort of a performance, hauled the Red Sox one notch nearer that mathematical certainty of winning the American league pennant yesterday. Babe did his big stunt by shutting out the Yankees, while the Carriagans were basking in the confidence that three runs, made in the second inning off Bob Shawkey, gave them.

The three were the only counters of the afternoon's game, which apart from that second was as close a contest as one would care to see. Babe and Bob were both in good form, and both were tendered great support, and so the assemblage of Red Sox fans were wised up as to just why the clan of the Carriagans has been able to rise rough shod over the rest of the league. One big inning and the game was over.

Yesterday's victory put the Detroit Tigers out of the running, forever and ever, and made the White Sox's chances what you might call scant. Should the champions win this afternoon and the Comiskey lose one of their two games, the race of 1916 will be all over.

The Sox scored all three runs in the second.

Gardner doubled right off the reel and Scott put him on third with a bunt which he defeated. Shawkey tried to catch the Deacon off first, but Pipp muffed the throw, and Larry trotted in. Thomas stroled and Ruth died on an infield tap. Hooper's suicide fly to left and Janny's triple in the other direction pushed over two more markers. Said triple should have been a monosack, but Miller played the ball wickedly. Shorten ended the uprising with a boulder to Geddon.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

"Ed" Walsh, scouting for the White Sox, has picked up a young pitcher from an independent league in Wisconsin, named Martin Lammers, who has won all his 19 games this season. He hails from Little Chute, Wis., and is 19 years of age.

Injuries to "Ray" Schaik and "Red" Russell were supposed to have seriously crippled the White Sox in their drive for the pennant, but the good "Jack" Lamm has tied the club over one of its handicaps and "Eddie" Cicotte came gallantly to the rescue of the pitching corps.

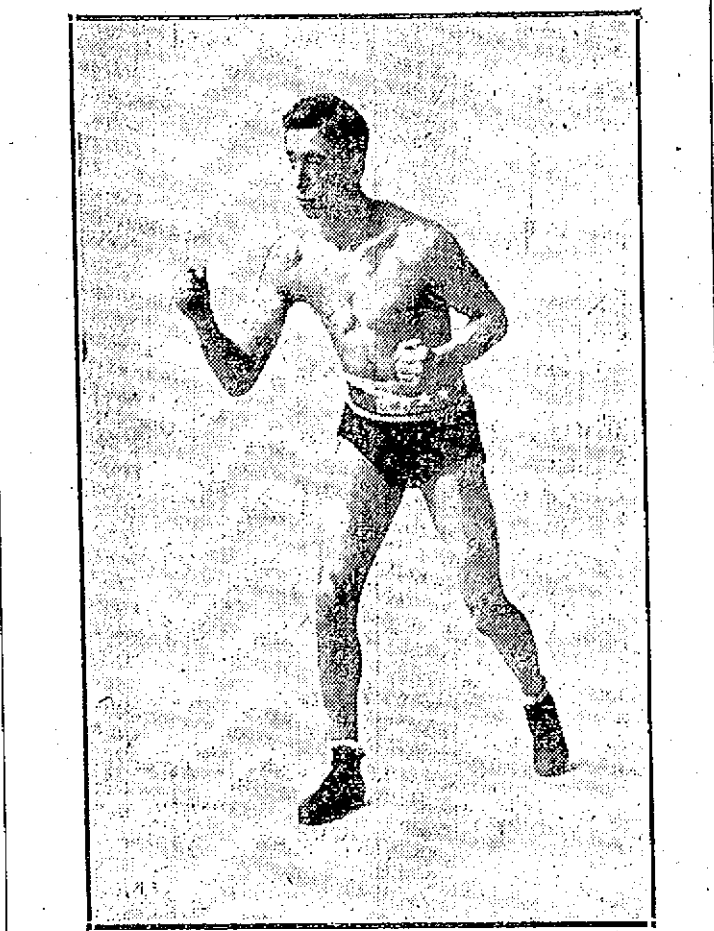

"Joe" Lutz, Higgins' stocky recruit pitcher, bears a striking resemblance to "Jack" Lamm, and the Indians both are of great stature but have a world of speed.

Harry Davis, coach of the MacKens, will manage a team of "barnstormers" after the season, among the members of which will be Frank Baker and "Fritz" Malsel of the Yankees.

Ferdie Schupp has more than repaid the confidence of John McGraw. Sitting on the bench for three years and part of this season Schupp was just recently given a chance to prove his ability. In his last six games, all of which he won, he allowed only seventeen hits and one earned run.

Clarke Griffith, the peppery manager of the Washington team of the American league, says that the chances of the Phillies copping the hurting in the National league race seemed very bright, but that if the Phils do play the Boston Red Sox in the world series the Moran men will go down to defeat. "Understand," exclaimed "Old Fox," "what I have to say is only a one man opinion and I am not rooting for any certain team to win in the league race or in the world series. To remain in the race the Phils must take two of the three games from Brooklyn. If they can do this the pennant is theirs as they have only the Braves to fight and by the time the Braves reach Philadelphia their pitchers will have been shot to pieces attempting to wallow the Giants. My team has played against the Dodgers every spring and I know the Phils are just a little bit stronger than Robinson. Now, assuming that the Phils win the pennant, can they beat the Red Sox? For my part I think that man for man Boston has a better team and the pitching staff is a little superior than Moran's. The Red Sox have a star hurler in Ruth, and if he is matched against Alexander it will be a beautiful battle. Ruth can also hit and hit hard. When Garretts was short, Mays, Leonard and several other top notch pitchers who, I believe, will repeat last year's trick of standing the Phils on their heads. A lot has been said about the wonderful pitching staff of the Phils. Alexander, we know, is a most wonderful hurler and I place him A No. 1. But take the rest of Moran's staff, do they compare as favorably as the Boston pitchers? To my mind they do not. Is it not true that the Phils' pitchers cannot be depended upon? Do they not pitch erratic ball? Don't they go in one day and hurl wonderful ball and the next start get wallowed around the lot?"

LOWELL BOXER READY TO MEET ANY FEATHERWEIGHT IN GAME

CHARLIE SHEPPARD

Charlie Sheppard, the sensational featherweight, has returned to Lowell after a most successful trip through Nova Scotia, where he won several bouts from some of the best boxers in that part of the country. Sheppard intends to make his home in this city, where he will train for future bouts.

The young boxer looked to be in the pink of condition, and said that he never felt better in his life. He now claims the New England featherweight championship and stands ready to meet any man of his weight, 125 pounds, in the country.

While across the border he engaged in seven bouts, and was returned the winner in all. On Sept. 15, he met Patsy Hagan, champion featherweight of St. Mary, in a fifteen round bout at Halifax, and came out on the long end after a fast and exciting contest that went the limit. All the Halifax fans commended the Lowell boy for his clean and clever work, and urged the club matchmakers to put him on soon again. One account said:

HALIFAX, Sept. 15.—The boxing bout at the Arena last night between Patsy Hagan and Charlie Sheppard went the full distance and returned Sheppard as winner. Hagan showed the effects of being called in as substitute in having a little supercilious badge at his waist line. Sheppard though clever in his last appearance here, showed a vast improvement and was faster and hit harder than on the occasion of their last meeting. In the line of boxing and footwork Sheppard worked on the sailor with a confidence that was surprising considering the result of the last bout.

The article then gives a descriptive account of the bout, round by round, in which it states that Sheppard had the advantage in practically every session.

PHILLIES NOW LEAD NAT'L LEAGUE

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Sept. 20.—The Philadelphia captured the lead in the National league pennant hunt this morning by defeating the Brooklyn 7 to 2. Manager Robinson sent his star pitcher, Philadelphia's advance but he was hammered hard and consistently and his service failed to buffet the bats of the visitors. Luderus helped himself to two two-buggers and a home run. Brooklyn could do little with Rixey's delivery. The game was played on a wind swept field.

The score, by innings:

| Team | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | R | H | E |
|--------------|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Philadelphia | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 7 | | | |
| Brooklyn | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 2 | | | |

Two base hits: Luderus, (2). Home run: Luderus. Stolen bases: Bancroft, Myers, Johnston. Sacrifice hits: Bancroft, Killifer. Double plays: Stock to Niehoff to Luderus; Niehoff to Luderus. Left on bases: Philadelphia, 5; Brooklyn, 7. First on errors: Philadelphia 1, Brooklyn 1. Base on balls: Off Rixey 4, Puffer 2. Hits and earned runs: Off Rixey 5 hits, no runs in 9 innings; off Puffer 10 hits, six runs in 9 innings. Struck out: By Rixey, 3; Puffer, 3. Wild pitch: Rixey. Time 2 hrs. Umpires: Klein and Emslie.

HAUGHTON NOT TO QUIT THE BOSTON BRAVES

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The following signed statement was issued by Manager Stallings of the Braves last night: "The stories associating my name with the presidency of the Boston Braves are so untrue that it is ridiculous to dignify them with a denial. I am strictly a manager and will remain one as long as I continue in the game. "Mr. Haughton and myself are working in perfect accord with the one thought of producing a winner for Braves field in 1917."

"G. T. Stallings."

The story that Pres. Percy D. Haughton of the Braves would retire from professional baseball, that he would be succeeded by Manager George T. Stallings, and the latter would be supplanted by Fred Mitchell, was generally denied in Boston yesterday.

Pres. Haughton and Treas. Arthur C. Wise both said there was absolutely no truth in the yarn, and Manager Stallings and Coach Mitchell, who are with the team in New York, both affirmed that there was nothing to the report.

NEBES BEATS YALE IN EXCITING RACE

LAST OF SERIES OF THREE RACES AT THE ROLLAWAY, HURD STREET, TONIGHT

Albert Nebes, Lowell's premium skater, just nosed out a winner last night over Billy Yale, the New York star, in the finest and hardest fought skating race yet staged at The Rollaway. Mgr. Moore has claimed from the start that both these men were trained to the minute and certainly these races are proving his assertion. From the very crack of the gun the racers "started something" and there were no dull moments at any time during the entire grind. Nebes got away in the lead, but by clever work forced Yale to test the pace for the first 8 laps when Yale "pulled" the front. Nebes and Nebes was shot to the front. Ever afterward it was first Yale, then Nebes leading with the crowd standing and cheering each favorite as he kept gaining speed until at the end of the third mile both men were fairly flying around the track. The time for the entire 5 miles was 14 minutes 45 seconds, and the last 2 1/2 miles 7 minutes 11 1/2.

It was doubly interesting to see these men on the new raceway as it is so much larger, giving a longer straightaway and a better chance to pass and repass each other. Tonight these men are to go an unlimited upstart race, the racers starting on at each end of the hall and going, until one overtakes and passes the other. This should be by far the most exciting and interesting race of the series and some real stiff racing is looked for.

Manager Moore, noting the closeness of these previous races, has offered a side special cash purse of $25 to the winner of tonight's event in addition to the race stake, so all can look for something very unusual in the racing line.

It was announced from the floor also that the entire world's series baseball games would be reproduced on an electric score board at the Rollaway. Score board is guaranteed by the manager of the Rollaway (Crescent rink), of each and every play within two minutes time of the game, and made on the diamond and transmitted by direct private wire to the Rollaway. Every known device and improvement has been installed on this board.

FAIRMOUNT CAMPERS HOLD DANCE

Last night at Fairmount hall the Fairmount campers held a very successful early-season dancing party. An interesting and entertaining program was carried out. Doyle's favorite six-piece orchestra furnished the music, giving a concert from 8 to 8:30, when dancing began. Between the dances the campers presented the Honey Dances and at intermission the Honey Dances were given by Leonard Brown, James Joseph Perry, Ed Handley, rendered pleasing numbers; also Andrew Doyle, soloist. This was in addition to the singing with dancing. The officers were as follows: General manager, John King; assistant general manager, John O'Connell; treasurer, William Welch; floor director, John Clark; assistant floor director, John McKnight; chief and Thomas Teague; aids, Fred Gillis, John Shaughnessy, Martin Cosgrove, Martin O'Connell, Paul Clark, James Cooney, Joseph Calnan, Paul McKaffrey.

RAIN STOPPED PHILLIES BROOKLYN GAME

BROOKLYN, Sept. 20.—The Phillies and Dodgers failed to break the deadlock in the National league race yesterday because rain interfered after an inning and a half had been played. Up to that time neither team had scored so it was decided that today two games will be played.

The first game will be run off in the morning and will start at 10:30 o'clock. President Cholly Ebbets came to the conclusion that if he did this—had one game in the morning and another in the afternoon—he would clean up for fair. Although he has made more cash this season than any other owner on the circuit and intends to charge higher prices for world's series tickets than the fans paid ever before, he still has the "clutching hand" out.

In spite of the threatening clouds yesterday the ball park was filled with people and Cholly figured that these fans would get away for nothing at a double-header today and crab him from getting a big pecuniary reward. So he intended the forenoon and afternoon sessions.

Only one hit had been made, a single by Wheat, up to the time the game was called today. Rixey for Philadelphia and Puffer for Brooklyn were the opposing pitchers.

LOWELL HIGH ELEVEN IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

The Lowell high football squad went to Woburn today, for the opening game of the 1916 season, with the Woburn high school eleven as opponents. The local boys under the direction of Coach Conway, are in fine condition for the game. They have put in considerable practice at Washington park and all are ready for the sound of the referee's whistle.

With the material available Coach Conway has whipped together a very formidable team. This year's backfield, with Capt. Lister, Arthur Lynch, F. Mahoney, and other candidates, is an exceptionally fast one. The line is heavy and with more seasoning will present a formidable offense and defense.

The squad left Merrimack square at 12:25 o'clock, accompanied by Coach Conway and student managers. Those who made the trip were: Capt. Lister, Arthur Lynch, Haywood, F. Mahoney, Dacey, Luchman, Connelley, Brown, White, Green, Hunter, Cullen, McLean, Vaughn, Mansur, Evans, Fletcher, Welch, Williams, Entwistle, Burkenhead, R. Mahoney and Markham.

YALE TO NUMBER MEN

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Sept. 20.—Yale will number the members of the football eleven in all the games of the season. Till the present time Yale has persistently opposed the plan. Guy Nicholls, the Yale crew coach, yesterday reached this city, after spending the summer at his home in England. He will take charge of the fall rowing when the crews are called out next Monday. A Yale-Columbia race is possible in November.

YELLE BEATS CROWLEY

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Freddie Yelle of Taunton knocked out Mike Crowley of Malden in the eighth round of their contest at the Commercial A.C. last night in a fast bout. Crowley's fast footwork got him away from many punches, but body blows gradually tired him.

PHEASANTS AND QUAIL ARE LIBERATED HERE

The officers and members of the local Fish and Game association are feeling quite elated over the fact that more pheasants and quail have been liberated here today. A consignment of pheasants was received by Secretary W. S. Holt on Wednesday and a large consignment of quail arrived Friday noon.

Both lots of birds were from the Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission. The pheasants were from the state game farm at Wilberham and the quail were from the state game farm at Sandwich. It is the desire of the local association to once more get the quail started in goodly numbers as it is one of our best game birds.

Quail in Essex county are not to be killed till 1917, but may be taken in New England. The duck season is now on and many have already been taken on nearby ponds by various gunners.

At the next meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 3rd, a large number of applications will be acted on and other business pertaining to the association work in this vicinity will also be taken up. The local association is now the largest of its kind in New England and possibly in the United States.

THREE MORE ARRESTS IN BLACKMAIL PLOT

TWO MEN AND A WOMAN TAKEN IN RAID ON CHICAGO APARTMENT

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Two more men and a woman were arrested by agents of the department of justice in a raid on a private apartment here early today and held in connection with the operations of the great Mann act blackmailers syndicate recently brought to light by federal officers.

Pursuing their investigation of the case of a wealthy merchant of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who is alleged to have been offered of $15,000 by the syndicate federal officials today took possession of a package of letters said to have been written by the merchant to two Chicago girls, whom he charges with having lured him to their apartment in Chicago, where the blackmail was exacted. Attorneys for the girls contend that the Iowa man wronged the girls and paid them $15,000 as recompense.

CASES IN POLICE COURT OFFENDERS ARE FINED

BOY FROM ROXBURY GOT INTO TROUBLE AT TYNGSBORO, BUT
GOT OFF EASILY

A group of youngsters from Roxbury started out to see the world a few days ago and landed in Tyngsboro, where they secured employment at Phil's box shop. They made the trip to the neighboring town from their home city on the electric cars and yesterday they made up their mind to go along further on their trip but before leaving the quiet town of Tyngsboro they decided to take on a supply of apples and accordingly went into the orchard of Henry Norris and helped themselves with the fruit with the result that the town officer was summoned and he escorted the young men who are still in their teens to the station.

At this morning's session of the police court they were charged with the larceny of 60 apples. They gave their names as William Long, Joseph F. Fallon, Thomas J. Glynn, George F. Golden, James J. Frayne and Joseph Gallagher. They all entered a plea of guilty and inasmuch as they all promised to return to their respective homes, their cases were placed on file.

Present at Gaming

Herbert Ryder and Stanley Cislakiewicz were both arraigned on complaints charging them with being present at a game on the Lord's day. Ryder admitted his guilt and was continued for sentence until Oct. 30, while the man with the long name denied his guilt. After one of the arresting officers had testified, the defendant changed his plea and was fined $5.

Joseph Lessard was charged with the larceny of a certain amount of groceries from John F. Walsh, proprietor of the Union market and through his counsel, George Toye, he entered a plea of not guilty. The complainant testified that on Sept. 22 Lessard went to the store and purchased certain goods and used a private stamp to mark his bill paid. He was detected and arrested by Inspector Walsh. On account of his family the plaintiff said he did not want him punished provided he made restitution. He agreed to do this and the defendant was given a suspended sentence.

Assault Case

Manuel Mello got into a little scrimmage with Michael Feldman and in the course of the controversy, he struck Feldman on the right eye, discolored it and the defendant was given a suspended sentence. Mello was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery, but denied his guilt. The complainant claimed Mello was standing in front of his (Feldman's) porch in Chelmsford street and was playing a game with two other young men. Feldman ordered the trio away with the result that Mello gave him a "slap" on the eye. Feldman's testimony was corroborated by his young daughter and another woman. Mello claimed he was assaulted by Feldman and his testimony was corroborated by two other witnesses. The court then found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $7.

A middle-aged man brought in on a complaint charging him with being a common drunkard, admitted his guilt and he was continued for sentence until Oct. 26, while a young man who was arrested in Tewksbury in an intoxicated condition was fined $3.

Fined $30

The case of Henry Kelley, charged with assault and battery upon Samuel Pappas, which dates back to July 24, was tried this morning and although the defendant pleaded not guilty, the court found against him and ordered him to pay a fine of $30. Plaintiff testified that Kelley struck him with a bottle and fractured his jaw.

Contractors Ask Suspension of the 8-Hour Law on Pawtucket Bridge

It was stated in these columns a few days ago that the National Engineering company had received a permit from the state police for a suspension of the eight-hour law in connection with the work on Pawtucket bridge and the statement was correct, but the permit, it seems, had been only temporarily granted and the absolute necessity of such extension is now being investigated by the commission on labor and industries.

Mayor O'Donnell appeared before the commission at Boston and asked for the suspension of the law, claiming that it is impossible to secure enough workmen on the bridge. He reminded it would be impossible to complete the structure before cold weather. This would entail a heavy loss on the contractors and would inconvenience many persons in the city.

The mayor was accompanied by City Engineer Kearney and a representative of the National Engineering company, both of whom agreed with the mayor as to the conditions. State Labor Commissioner Edwin Mulready came to Lowell yesterday afternoon to look into the situation, and it was intimated that the statute might be suspended under certain conditions. Mr. Mulready called at city hall and was in conference with the mayor for some time. After looking the bridge over and talking with the contractors he went back to Boston, announcing that he would lay the matter before the commission. It is understood that a decision will be forthcoming in a short time. In view of the fact that the bridge should be finished this year that the residents may not be inconvenienced further, the mayor said he felt entirely justified in asking the state commission of labor and industry to grant the permit for overtime work.

Are you wretched in bad weather? Does every cold settle on your kidneys? Does your back ache and become weak? Are urinary passages irregular and distressing? These symptoms are cause to suspect kidney weakness.

Weakened kidneys need quick help. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened kidneys. Lowell people recommend them. Charles E. Jameson, 163 Grand St., Lowell, says: "At different times during the last few years, I have had quite a bit of trouble with my kidneys. If I caught cold or did any heavy lifting, my back started to ache and became stiff and sore. At such times I found it hard to do any lifting or bending. The kidney secretions were also too frequent in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills have always given me relief from these troubles."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Jameson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

TO FIGHT PARALYSIS NEW YORK HAS TO EXAMINE A MILLION SCHOOL CHILDREN

TEACHER EXAMINES NEW YORK SCHOOL GIRL

The infantile paralysis epidemic failed to have any considerable effect in reducing the attendance at the opening sessions of the public, parochial and private schools in New York city. Officials of the board of education estimated that the total enrollment was only about 15 per cent. below what would have been regarded as normal, which is, roughly, about 1,000,000, of which is, roughly, about 100,000 were kept at home by their parents through fear of the epidemic. The other 50,000 appeared ready to attend the schools but were sent home by physicians and nurses of the department of health because they came from premises where cases of poliomyelitis are under quarantine or because they had only recently returned to New York from the country and failed to bring with them the proper certificates. Several educational innovations marked the opening, chief among them being the inspection of every child by nurses and physicians of the department of health, the inauguration of a system of compulsory physical training for the first time in the history of American education and the fact that the year marked the beginning of compulsory military training for boys more than sixteen years of age, the first time such a system has ever been provided by law in an American state. Every child who enters the schools for the first time this session is questioned and inspected for signs of an infectious disease, and none is permitted to enter the classroom until the inspection has been completed.

THE PRISONER TESTIFIES

NEUTRAL VESSELS SUNK BY UNDERSEA CRAFT; PRISONER ON THE STAND IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Much more complete information of Germany's submarine activities which supplements Lord Robert Cecil's statement in London last night was received in dispatches from London, arriving here today which show that between June 1 and Sept. 24 less than 362 vessels of all nationalities have been sunk by submarines. Of those 15 were reported sunk without warning with the loss of 54 lives. A total of 65 neutral vessels were destroyed during the period.

Today's fuller information brings out that the submarine activity has practically doubled during the last two months. During June, after delivery of the American note on the Sussex accepting Germany's agreement not to sink vessels without proper safeguard to lives aboard, 57 vessels were sunk, of which five were neutral and six including three neutrals, were sunk without warning with the loss of 28 lives.

In July the total sunk fell off to 42, including nine neutrals and two British sunk without warning, with the loss of 41 lives.

In August, the total sunk more than doubled with the figure of 103, including 35 neutral vessels. Two allied boats were sunk without warning with the loss of three lives. The figures up to Sept. 24 show a continuing high rate of destruction in the month with a total of 5 vessels sunk, including 26 neutrals, with five allied boats sunk without warning and the loss of 15 lives.

The list of vessels sunk without warning with the lives lost is given as follows:

British: Golconda, June 3, North sea, 13 lost.

Moctis, June 30, Mediterranean, three lost.

Calypso, July 10, in North sea, 30 lost.

Euphorbia, July 15, Mediterranean, 11 lost.

Arro, Aug. 1, North sea, three lost.

Swift Wings, Sept. 1, Mediterranean, two lost.

Llangorse, Sept. 5, Mediterranean, none lost.

Invercherry, Sept. 14, Mediterranean, six lost.

Dewa, Sept. 17, Mediterranean, three lost.

Lord Tredegar, Sept. 17, Mediterranean, four lost.

ALLIES

Ville de Rouen (French), June 18, Mediterranean, two lost.

Socca (French), Aug. 25, Mediterranean, no information.

NEUTRALS

Excellenz Mennert (Norwegian), June 1, North sea, none lost.

Orkadal (Norwegian), June 3, North sea, none lost.

Bure (Norwegian), June 9, North sea, one lost.

The information as given above corresponds almost exactly with that in the state department files and will be the preliminary basis on which American consideration of the submarine question as it now stands, is laid out. No action has been taken by the state department on any of the foregoing cases, nor on Germany's general submarine policy, since the Sussex note, on the ground that in no case as yet has it been proved that American lives were endangered. The submarine campaign is being watched very carefully, especially in view of the increased agitation in Germany for a resumption of unrestricted activity.

Albert J. Roper on trial for the murder at Tewksbury on March 1 of his father, Albert Roper, a socialist, testified in his own defense today immediately after his counsel, William H. Wilson, had concluded an opening statement in which he declared the prisoner was in Boston the night of the murder.

The state rested its case yesterday afternoon. It had been announced that a number of witnesses would be called by the defense and there was some surprise in the courtroom when Roper took the stand.

Court opened at ten o'clock and Lawyer Wm. H. Wilson, senior counsel for the defense, addressed the jury, explaining the relationship and feeling between the defendant and his father and also the whereabouts of Roper on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 29th and March 1.

He said he would prove that the defendant was not seen on the electric car at Chandler's turn on Wednesday night and would show, by witnesses that it was on Tuesday night. He admitted that the defendant had lied to Mrs. Fox and that the so-called roll of money that he displayed at the New Richmond hotel on Wednesday was $35 of the $55 which belonged to Mrs. Fox and which had been mislaid or lost by her during the summer. He said that the $20 given Mrs. Fox for rent and the $23 found under the rug was part of the money that belonged to Mrs. Fox.

Albert J. Roper, the defendant, was the first witness called. He testified in a very low tone of voice and when testifying to the fact that his father was his best friend, he broke down and cried.

Lawyer Wilson's Address

At the opening of this morning's session Lawyer William H. Wilson addressed the jury, speaking in part as follows: "The law does not demand that some person should be punished, but that the right person should be found and suitable punishment inflicted. In a civil case if a mistake is made it may be corrected, but not so in a case of this kind." Mr. Wilson then referred to the woman, Mrs. Albert Roper, who is a mother and was made a widow as the result of what occurred on March 1, the brother and sister of the defendant and the defendant himself. He said that a man is innocent until adjudged guilty, and that a man in or out of prison is a man.

NEWS FROM CITY HALL

INFANTILE PARALYSIS ON THE INCREASE

There were two cases of infantile paralysis discovered in Lowell this week though but one was reported. The reason that the second case was not given publicity was due to the fact that the patient had well recovered before it became known that it was a case of infantile paralysis. In the board of health's tabulated report for the week, however, two cases of infantile paralysis are reported under the head of "infectious diseases."

The board of health will have new figures to do on its weekly reports as it will have to reckon with an increased population as recently given by the bureau of labor and statistics. For the last four years the total number of deaths, etc., have been figured on the basis of a population of 108,294 and the rate hereafter, or until a still later report is received from the bureau of labor and statistics, will be 107,975.

BREEZY LETTER SENT TO SCHOOL BOARD

The following communication addressed to the school board by Corneliu J. O'Neill will be found well worth reading. It concerns what The Sun has said of some evening school teachers as being fully competent and perhaps better than those who will take their place.

To the Editor of The Lowell Sun:

Dear Sir: As there seems to be much comment in the newspapers over the recent action of the school committee, I would appreciate it greatly if you would publish this self-explanatory letter from one of the deposed "incompetents," as classified by inference from the report of its meeting.

Lowell, Mass.

To Members of the Lowell School Committee:

Gentlemen: I note by The Lowell Sun published under the date of September 27, 1916, that I and my associates in the teaching department of the evening schools were dismissed from said service by the action of your honorable body on Tuesday evening last. On the grounds that you gentlemen deemed the teaching ability of the principals and teachers as below the standard and that "professional" teachers would supplant us.

I wish at the outset that you would accept my personal thanks, (and I feel I may convey without fear of contradiction the thanks of my disaffected friends), for your gentlemanly manner of notifying us that our services were no longer needed. Common courtesy would have demanded that you send us official and personal notice of our retirement, but evidently we were not considered as worthy of even that sign of respect, seeing that we were given our notice through the press. I therefore, do not feel I am committing a breach of confidence in giving this letter to the press on the same day that you will receive it.

It appears to me that your esteemed body is one that frequently changes its mind. There still lingers in my memory the recollections of the severe examinations you gave us to test our capabilities for teaching in your evening schools. That was some two or three years ago when the school committee made up of certain present incumbents. The papers for those examinations were drawn up by selected principals of the grammar schools who reported on, and passed successfully, we had recommended our admission as teachers. The result was our appointment for two or three successive years with apparently no outward manifestation of disgust and despair on the part of the people as to our ability to teach the pupils of our schools. And now comes your action of the past week when you as civilians and not experienced teachers yourselves, declare that we are not competent, and thereby cast a cloud on the examinations of those papers, men who are recognized as professional teachers.

Two of your members, both friends of mine, have taught in the evening schools, and it was with the utmost surprise that I read that your action in this radical change was unanimous. I am unable to understand how these two gentlemen are able to publicly confess that they deemed themselves incapable of doing the job. Whether they do so or not, is no reason why I should allow you to place me in the same category, at least not without a disputing word.

I am at the present time a holder of a first grade certificate from the Lowell school committee and issued under the signature of the present superintendent of schools, Hugh J. Molloy. That certificate, as you know, deems me capable of filling the position of principal of the day high school or of any of the grammar schools. It is to save your body and your highly respected superintendent the embarrassment of explaining the inconsistency of issuing and allowing to be held such a certificate by a young man whom you now, by your vote of Tuesday last, deem as not capable of upholding the standard of the evening schools, that I ask you to kindly cancel any record of the issuance of said certificate.

My motive in sending this letter to you is not a selfish one as you may think, because other affairs would have necessitated my resigning as principal of one of your evening schools, but it is to prove to you and the public that all your actions are not what you would have us believe, consistent and elevating.

Trusting you will continue in your "Reformation of the schools of Lowell," I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,
Corneliu J. O'Neill.

TWO KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRAINS

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 30.—When a piston rod on the first engine of train 1231 on the Pennsylvania line New York to Cincinnati broke today the train left the track and partially overturned. The engineer and fireman on the first engine were killed, while the crew of the second engine were injured. Five passengers were bruised, but none was seriously hurt. The wrecked train was of steel coaches, drawn by two engines. About 1500 feet of track was torn up.

PARTRIDGE KILLS SELF FOR HAVERHILL WOMAN

HAVERHILL, Sept. 30.—A partridge, plump and just right for eating, presented itself to Mrs. Dorothy Connor, 484 Water street, yesterday afternoon as a suggestion for a Sunday dinner. To make the work of preparation less involved the bird graciously killed itself and when Mrs. Connor found it was ready to be plucked.

Evidently bewildered the fowl flew headfirst through a large pane of glass in Mrs. Connor's front window. Mrs. Connor heard the crash and found the bird dead on the table near the window.

WILSON SPURNS AID OF "DISLOYAL" AMERICANS

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 30.—President Wilson made it plain yesterday that he wants no "disloyal" American to vote for him. He expressed indignation, however, over a telegram from Jeremiah A. O'Leary of New York, president of the American Truth society, accusing him of being pro-British and saying he had failed to obtain compliance with American rights.

The president sent Mr. O'Leary a short telegram, which officials indicated Mr. Wilson had desired to put in stronger language. His message follows:

"Your telegram received. I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them."

Mr. O'Leary's telegram, given out by the president, follows:

"Again we greet you with a popular disapproval of your pro-British policies. Last year from the 23rd New York congressional district, and now from your own state and from the voters of your own party, Senator Martine won because the voters of New Jersey do not want any truck-

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" ?

The Simple Juices Of Apples, Oranges, Figs and Prunes Transformed Into A Medicine Which Relieves All Diseases Of Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Skin.

The value of fruit juices, in preventing and relieving disease, has been recognized for centuries.

The objections to using fresh fruit as a cure for disease are, 1st, the high cost of fruit, particularly in winter; 2nd, the difficulty of eating enough fruit to do any permanent good. Some years ago, however, a prominent English physician in Ottawa, Canada, began a series of experiments in an effort to find some practical and economical way to utilize the valuable medicinal properties of fruit.

He found that the juice is the curative part of fruit. Now, fruit juice consists of 91 parts water and 9 parts solid matter. Of the solid matter found in the juice, 1 part is an exceedingly bitter substance which is the active or medicinal agent. After exhaustive tests, this physician learned that apples, oranges, figs and prunes give the best results—that these four fruits contain all the medicinal principles of all other fruits, and contain a higher percentage of this bitter principle. He combined these four fruit juices and then forced an additional atom of the bitter substance (which he secured from orange peel) into the juices in such a way that a new substance was formed. This new substance was many times more active medicinally than the original bitter substance.

It is this new compound—combined with tonics and antiseptics and made into tablets—is everywhere known as "FRUIT-A-TIVES". It is the only medicine in the world made from fruit juices, and has proved its value in thousands and thousands of cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Tropic Liver, Constipation, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Chronic Headaches, and troubles arising from a disordered condition of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is now made in the United States and may be had at druggists or general stores at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ogdenburg, New York.

BREMEN LIFE PRESERVER FOUND

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 30.—A life preserver marked "Bremen" floated ashore yesterday afternoon on the shores of Cape Elizabeth. A bomb from a Zeppelin could have caused little more excitement.

A 14-year-old boy, playing about the beach, snatched the circular bit of canvas as it slipped away on a receding tide. With his find he started home to mother. A father sighted the markings on the preserver and almost instantly the boy was surrounded by a throng of anxious would-be purchasers.

While the finding has created some little excitement here it has all the earmarks of a raw "plant." It will probably develop in a few days that two or three sensation seekers secured the preserver, put the fake markings on it and carefully sailed it away to be found later. No seafaring man takes the slightest stock in the story.

Boy Finds It

The Bremen is not a naval vessel, but of the North German Lloyd line. The life belts of these lines do not carry the name of the vessel, and the "Wilhelmshafen" added shows the fakeness of the belt.

Frederick Leighton, 14-year-old son of Peter Leighton of 124 Brackett street, Westbrook, was the boy who found the preserver. Playing on the beach, he scurried in and out of the water in search of shells. The floating bit of white canvas attracted him and he waded out. He threw the preserver on the beach with his pile of shells. A half-hour later he started for home, the preserver hooked over his arm.

"Bremen" appeared on both sides of the canvas, and the lettering attracted a crowd. They offered him a dollar, five dollars, ten dollars for his find. Eventually he became frightened and ran to Fort Williams.

On each side of the word "Bremen" in black letters about three inches in height. On one side was evidently the makers' insignia. It read: "Schutz-Marke" (trade mark), and then appeared a German coat-of-arms. Below this was painted "V. Wilhelmshafen." And below was "Wilhelmshafen."

Officials at the fort examined the preserver and found it stained with grease. Many believed that it might have been thrown overboard from the much looked for German submersible and had floated ashore.

LEADERS NOW ADMIT STRIKE A FAILURE

BY 45 MINUTES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Probability of a general sympathy strike in aid of the tracton employees who quit their places on Sept. 6 lessened last night with the announcement that the local Brewery Workers' union, whose 300 members struck in response to the call of the conference of labor leaders, had voted to return to work.

Officials of the union issued a statement in which it was said developments proved that organized labor "will not act in concert in behalf of the carmen."

Organizations of subway and elevated road motormen will continue, according to a statement made yesterday by L. G. Grilling, third assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in charge of the work in this city.

The Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees yesterday took steps to distribute strike benefits among the men who were not allowed to ride on the elevated, but it is the belief of employees and the police that he was stealing a ride on the elevated when his arm got caught.

Patrolman Charles Bartick, one of the first to arrive on the scene, with a chief and hammer knocked the bolts off the pan, in an endeavor to release him. Patrolman Creed, Collins and Brady assisted him. Chief McDonald and the crew of Ladder 9 were summoned, and the firemen chopped away the elevator structure before the boy was finally released and sent to the relief hospital. Dr. John J. Murphy found that he had sustained a crushed left arm and abrasions of the thigh and back.

While the firemen and police were working 1000 persons gathered on the new Charlesworth bridge watching the building. McLaughlin is the son of Mrs. Mary McLaughlin.

SYLVESTER SMITH SAFE AT STATE INFIRMARY

Sylvester Smith of Antrim, N. H., for whom inquiries have been made in this city, has been located and he is now at the state infirmary in Tewksbury. A few days ago the superintendent of police received a letter from a daughter of Mr. Smith, who resides at Antrim, asking the police to locate if possible the father. Her father had left home in the early part of August and the last heard from him was when he was in Lowell. It seems that Mr. Smith, who is 64 years of age, called on City Messenger Owen Monahan and informed him he had lost his money, between $30 and $40. Mr. Monahan got in touch with the aged man's son-in-law at Antrim and requested him to send enough cash to pay the visitor's fare home, but the money never came. Mr. Smith was later taken to the state infirmary where he has remained since.

BRANCH OF CITY LIBRARY ON GORHAM ST. POPULAR

The branch library established by the city in the store of Miss Margaret O'Neil on Gorham street near Davis square is a great boon to the people of that section—and especially to the children. From early morning until late at night, the genial proprietress is on hand to meet the wants of patrons. Many of whom would not think of going so far as the city library building. Between Miss O'Neil and her patrons there has grown up a strong bond of friendship and sympathy as she has come to know the personality of each reader she tries to have them read the books that are suited to their tastes. Accordingly, many a request for a sensational book is met by the answer that "it is not in," and Miss O'Neil suggests something better. This branch library was the idea of Miss

Decayed Teeth and Unclean Mouth Invite Infectious Disease

"Come in, the water's fine!" exclaim the happy bathers to the friends they have preceded in the water.

And in much the same exuberant fashion does the army of little health-destroying germs send a welcome invitation to millions of other disease-breeding friends to join them in the ravaging of an unclean mouth.

Disease germs thrive on uncleanness and decay and a mouthful of bad teeth is indeed their "happy hunting ground"—but the unfortunate person who provides their pleasure destroys his own through lost health.

Infectious diseases are best and most surely warded off by protecting the mouth—the gateway to the body; cleanliness here and sound teeth are the finest kinds of protection against great or small ills.

Now is especially the right time for such protection; the cost will be far too reasonable to be compared with the amount of benefit you will receive and the work, of course, will be guaranteed to satisfy.

Why Does Tanlac Sell at the Rate of Five Million Bottles a Year?—Matron Gives His Reasons After Taking the Master Medicine.

The production of Tanlac, the National Tonic, now is at the rate of five million bottles per year. Stop and think. Of course, it pays to advertise—pays tremendously when the product advertised has absolutely no competition and "makes good" to the last word. But do you think advertising alone would create a demand for Tanlac approximating 100,000 bottles a week?

Don't you agree that merit so extraordinary as to stamp Tanlac as absolutely unique in its powers to "make good" is necessary to make such a record. Tanlac is a tissue builder, appetizer and invigorant. It reaches with its reconstructive qualities those ill of the stomach, liver and kidneys, and catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, that are the common maladies of the day—the strength sapping lethargy—creating ailments that "get your nerve" whether you be merchant, or artisan, employer or employee, man or woman.

Albert Matron, a tailor living at 311 Fifth street, Holyoke, Mass., has suffered from a stomach trouble, and was in a general rundown condition. Mr. Matron has been taking Tanlac and tells of the remarkable results obtained. In full Mr. Matron said:

"I have suffered from stomach trouble, had a lured and weak feeling all the time, and did not feel like working. I could not eat very much and always felt shaky in the mornings when I would get up."

"I saw Tanlac advertised and since taking it I can now eat fine, I feel much stronger and I am more willing to work, as I do not have that tired feeling in the morning."

"I am now very glad to recommend Tanlac and to allow the use of my name as I want everybody to know how good it has made me feel."

Tanlac is purely vegetable. The ingredients are brought from many parts of the world. In the Tanlac laboratories these are compounded with absolute accuracy so as to obtain the high standard of efficiency that is maintained in the National Tonic.

Weak rundown men and women, who need better digestions, more strength and a toning up of the nervous system will find Tanlac an ideal tonic, appetizer and invigorant.

Tanlac is now being introduced and explained daily in Lowell, at the Lowell Pharmacy, 632 Merrimack street, where the Tanlac Man will gladly tell you of its merits.

Opera House, a splendid program of vaudeville and picture features will be offered, the management having secured five big headline acts and as many reels of the newest and best released in vaudeville. There will be just two performances, in the afternoon at 2:15 and the other in the evening at 7:30 while the prices charged will be 10, 15 and 25 cents. Seats are now selling for both performances.

One of the biggest hits on the bill is Wilson and Wilson in their Irish songs and vaudeville. This is one of vaudeville's brightest gems and they offer a line of material that is certain to appeal to Lowell audiences. Wilson and Adams "A Boy—A Girl—A Piano" is a most charming and funny production many new songs number "The Rathskeller Boys" McGrath and Henry is another top liner that is certain to appeal to Lowell audiences.

Cook With Gas

There was never yet a woman who once cooked with gas and went back to coal and wood—if she could get gas. Because the fire is always ready; she needed no kindling; didn't have to wait until the fire burned; had no dirt, dust nor ashes to clean up; and the heat could be regulated to the proper temperature—and it stayed there. Gas is an all-round fuel. It is efficient, economical and labor saving. We'll tell you more about it if you'll call.

GOLD CROWNS—All the crowns made in my office are twenty-two carat, thirty gauge gold, strongly reinforced. Most of the crowns made by dentists are machine made with faulty articulation and wear through shortly. All my crowns are hand made, articulated and worn through their proper way, and with a close fit at the gum margin.

Where plate work is desired, I wish to say that I am a great believer in suction plates. By this I mean that upper dentures are held in place by atmospheric pressure. To achieve a better business in that direction I have devised a triple vacuum located on the inside of the plate which brings about a perfect suction.

I will esteem it a favor if you will call and investigate my methods.

CULTIVATE HABITS OF THRIFT

Evidence of Successful Business Proves That Saving Pays—Only the Thrifty Are in a Position to Enjoy Life's Blessings

By Jacques H. DeLamara,

Copyright 1916—All Rights Reserved

Unless the evidence of men in business is "perjured testimony," the only great difficulty in the way of enjoying life's blessings rests in the first stages. If one will persist in saving until the savings amount to something, one's interest and self-confidence grows stronger—and the habit of thrift is formed.

"Thrift," recently remarked Mr. Edward A. Brooks, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, "is neither miserliness nor parsimony; nor does it mean the absence of pleasure. It is the habit of the thrifty, saving, provident person who not only has pleasures and enjoyments, but can continue to have them."

Prodigality and wastefulness do not necessarily mean pleasure even for the present, and probably none for the future. Thrift means the getting of a dollar's worth of pleasure from the expenditure of a dollar, and not the wasteful attitude of spending money that tomorrow we would be glad to have returned to us. We probably waste from American tables today, enough to feed an army.

It is the thrifty people of the community who support its institutions; who give its benefactions; who are supporting not only their own families, but the hospitals, the churches, or the institutions of the state; who are paying its taxes; who are citizens upon whom the state, society and the church must rely.

Money, whether for the individual or the nation, is not the most important thing. It does not make the most important people unless thrift and frugality go with it. The idle rich—the nation's spenders—are not the important part of the nation, but they are a menace to it. They were in Babylon, in Assyria, in Persia, in Greece, in Rome, in France at the time of the Revolution, and they are in America today. The strength of Rome lay not in the time when the Romans were extravagantly spending their millions in feasts and games; when people were fleeing from the country to the city; when young millionaires spent their time at the baths and in feeding upon nightingales' tongues, and upon oysters brought in from the shores of Britain; and when the citizen soldiers were replaced by hirelings, but in the time when the Roman farmer was his citizen and statesman, and depended not upon others but upon himself for performing the duties of the family and the state.

Money, whether for the individual or the nation, is not the most important thing. It does not make the most important people unless thrift and frugality go with it. The idle rich—the nation's spenders—are not the important part of the nation, but they are a menace to it. They were in Babylon, in Assyria, in Persia, in Greece, in Rome, in France at the time of the Revolution, and they are in America today. The strength of Rome lay not in the time when the Romans were extravagantly spending their millions in feasts and games; when people were fleeing from the country to the city; when young millionaires spent their time at the baths and in feeding upon nightingales' tongues, and upon oysters brought in from the shores of Britain; and when the citizen soldiers were replaced by hirelings, but in the time when the Roman farmer was his citizen and statesman, and depended not upon others but upon himself for performing the duties of the family and the state.

today laying aside small sums of money each week to provide, while times are good, for that inevitable rainy day" which is bound to come to us all.

Mr. Thomas H. Murphy, treasurer of the Washington Savings Institution of Lowell, when asked to state his version of thrift, remarked to the writer:

"Thrift, I take it, is the determination to live with a margin for future advancement; to earn a little more than one spends; to spend a little less than one earns, meanwhile to get the value in strength, satisfaction, or in worthy return for the money one feels free to spend. The spirit of thrift is opposed to waste on the one hand, and to recklessness upon the other.

"It does not invoke stinginess, which is an abuse of thrift, nor does it require that each item of savings should be a financial investment. The money that is spent in the education of one's self or of his family, in travel, in music, or art, or helpfulness to others, if it brings real return in personal development or in better understanding of the world we live in, is in accord with the spirit of thrift.

"On the other hand, the money spent in spurious pleasures, or in modes of life which leave us weaker in power of effort, or dulled in power of enjoyment, are contrary to the ideas of the movement for thrift. Thrift is one of the oldest virtues, but is one of the most difficult to practice, and its precepts cannot be brought before the public too often."

Only the Thrifty Man is Independent

"When the first savage," continued Mr. Murphy, "put aside the club that he found useful, instead of throwing it away, trusting to have another one needed, he began, for thrift is simply foreseeing wants and providing for them. Throughout the ages there have been those who foresaw and provided, and those that met trouble unprepared and went down under it. famine, winter, flood and living enemies came upon these people; the thrifty lived and saved; the unthrifty starved and died."

"In our day one great means by which the individual provides to meet the dangers and difficulties of tomorrow is that of saving money. In time of trouble the man who has no means must be cared for by others; but the thrifty man of sight and hearing, of hands and feet, and he still has the wherewithal to care for himself as in the days of his strength. The thrifty man is his own man; the unthrifty man may see the time when he lives only by the grace of others."

An Easy System of Saving

A recent periodical tells of a man who started a bank account and deposited sixty-six dollars in it a year, by beginning with a single cent and doubling every day of the week.

For example, on Monday he laid aside the one cent, on Tuesday two cents, Wednesday four cents, Thursday eight cents, Friday 16 cents, Saturday 32 cents and Sunday 64 cents. Adding this all together, he deposited $127 and on Monday started again with one cent.

Another man, hearing of it, worked the same plan, only backward—that is, Monday was his pay day, and like most others, the farther he got from pay-day the less money he had, so he began on Monday with 64 cents, Tuesday 32 cents, Wednesday 16 cents, Thursday 8 cents, Friday 4 cents, Saturday 2 cents and Sunday 1 cent, with exactly the same result. $127 to put in the bank on Monday.

Another case was that of a printer

who dearly loved bargains. He was always talking at the shop, of the $3.00 shoes he had bought for $2.50; or the cheap neckties he found, or of how he walked to save carfare. But the foreman of the shop—a really saving man—who had a bank account of his own, criticized him one day. Said the foreman to him:

"You never actually save any money, you only think you do. Why don't you walk away from the bank all the money you gain in your bargains? Then you'd be saving, not talking."

The bargain hunter accepted the idea. After that, whenever he saved 40 cents on a pair of shoes, it went into his "savings pocket," when he walked to the office instead of taking the car, the nickel went into that pocket too. In a few months he had a neat little savings bank account, and it is now as much pride to him as his bargain.

Either of these plans will help save towards a house and lot or to start in business. They are novel, but they are well worth trying by anyone who has never saved in the past—and they are picturesque hints to the rising generation.

Make the World Your Debtor

Civilization, looked at upon its economic side, is simply thrift and nothing else. To produce without waste and thus produce cheaply, to consume without waste and thus consume efficiently; to conserve for the future that which is not needed for the present—these are the maxims of thrift and the glories of civilization.

In the everyday spending of the people, much runs to waste. To conserve this power and apply it to the machinery of industry and in the daily routine of life's endeavor, is one of the objects of civilization. This may be accomplished only through personal foresight and self-control.

The unthrifty man is compelled to end his life selfishly, for he has nothing to give either for any public cause or for any friend's need; the thrifty man can take all the world has to offer, for he has made the world his debtor.

Ancient Poem on Thrift

In the opening years of the Christian Era, lived Marcus Valerius Martialis, known as the poet martial, "the first of the grammarians." As a young man he obtained the patronage of the Roman Emperor and later married a lady of wealth. His life therefore, was one of ease and luxury, and of such economies as poor people have to practice, he knew nothing. But he avoided the riotous spending and waste which ruined so many Romans and ultimately destroyed their great empire. His fifty-third epigram, as translated by Abram Cowley, the famous English poet, is as follows:

"Would you be free? 'Tis your chief wish, you say; Come on, I'll show thee, friend, the certain way. If to no feasts abroad thou lovest to go, Whilst bounteous God does bread at home bestow; If thou, the goodness of thy clothes dost prize By thine own use, and not by other's eyes; If, (only safe from weathers) thou canst dwell In a small house—but convenient shell; If thou without a sigh or golden wish, Canst look upon thy beechen bowl and dish; If in thy mind such power and greatness be, The Persian king's a slave compared with thee."

Why Not Try This Plan

Put 10 cents away on Monday; 15 cents on Tuesday; 25 on Thursday and 30 on Friday. That's even dollar saved. Bring it to us, open a bank account week make it a point to save the same amount every without fail. Before Christmas you'll have a pretty start, eh? Why not begin today? We'll pay you interest.

SLAYER OF WOMAN AND DAUGHTER MUST DIE

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Adam Tarzeln, found guilty last May of the murder of Anna Ostrovsk, whom he had sought to marry, and her mother, was sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week beginning Nov. 19, in the superior court today. Tarzeln's intentions toward the young woman had been opposed by her mother. After he had shot them at their home in Chelsea on Jan. 17, he attempted to take his own life, but recovered from the wounds caused by firing two bullets into his abdomen. The trial was the shortest on record in this state for a murder case, occupying less than two days.

THE PRESIDENT'S SUPPORTERS

One occasionally meets an individual who says that, in his opinion, there is very little difference between the personality of President Wilson and that of Mr. Hughes; that both are sincere men who are idealists rather than politicians, and that were it not for the party barrier, Candidate Hughes should in all probability vote for President Wilson. Even Roosevelt before his famous long jump declared that the only difference between the opposing candidates is a crop of whiskers.

Be that as it may, there is one very distinct difference between the rivals for the presidency—and that is in their friends and in the policies which these friends profess. With Mr. Hughes are all the old discarded bosses of the republican party, men that the people distrust and mostly dislike, and with him also are those who, from unworthy motives, have set out to defeat President Wilson, because the president was too strongly American to suit their taste in time of national crises.

On the other hand behind President Wilson stand many men of national prominence who refuse to be swayed by petty partisan considerations and who are anxious to aid the president in pulling through his great policies for the good of humanity and of the United States in particular. The great issue as they see it is not whether this or that party gets power and patronage, but whether this nation is to enjoy peace and prosperity while the rest of the world bleeds in the shambles of war. They realize that the president has borne a heavier burden than any president since Lincoln, and that he has stood for American rights and liberties in a way that will win the commendation of his country and of posterity.

No group of men in the country works harder for the re-election of the chief executive than the members of his cabinet and the heads of important government departments, and while this may be good practical politics, it is something more, as a study of their statements will prove. Statements have been given to the press in which the claims of President Wilson have been advanced by Vice President Marshall, Secretary of Labor Wilson, Mr. Padgett, chairman of the house naval affairs, Hon. William C. Adamson, father of the 8-hour bill, Attorney General Gregory, Hon. David J. Lewis of Maryland, author of the parcels post, and many other men whose names have been most prominently identified with the great reforms of the Wilson administration. These statements are not empty platitudes, but reviews of the legislation that came under their province, illustrated with proof that the administration of President Wilson has been a constructive one, filled with achievements that have reflected prestige and prosperity on the country.

Others who have recently come out strongly for President Wilson are Cleveland Olney, attorney-general and secretary of state under President Cleveland; Thomas A. Edison, the great inventor; Ida M. Tarbell, the writer; President Garfield of Williams college, and a great host of progressive leaders from the western states where Wilson sentiment is gaining daily. In no case can it be said that these men and women are either playing politics or nursing a grudge against the republican candidate. Mr. Hughes has the backing of the partisans who have axes to grind and the disloyal sympathizers with a foreign cause, but behind President Wilson are Americans who honor and support him because of his fight for the American people and American principles.

NO SIGN OF PEACE

If the dove of peace is flying anywhere over this wicked old world she is a weary bird, and she will be more weary before she finds a friendly branch. Instead of coming to an end the war is spreading and on a fiercer scale than ever, and those who had hoped for a cessation of hostilities before winter are sorely disappointed. A year ago at this time people were seizing on supposed indications of approaching peace, but now there is nothing on which to base such a hope. The war will go on until the allies are able to dictate terms or until both sides are so weak from blood letting that they will stop from exhaustion.

Many had hoped that the speech of the German chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg at the opening of the reichstag last Thursday would leave a loophole for the discussion of peace terms, but it was in many ways the most beligerent speech made by that official during the war. He declared that there can be no talk of peace at this time and expressed the determination of Germany to still fight on against all odds. To substitute this attitude, it is reported that a considerable portion of the German people is clamoring for a resumption of the submarine warfare on a large scale, and the visit of Ambassador Gerard is said to be in connection with this new danger.

The attitude of England is well known. Having fought on through her period of disorganization and unpreparedness, she now has all the men needed and enough ammunition for all emergencies. Lloyd George declared emphatically a few days ago that any offer of mediation from a neutral power at this time would be very unwelcome, and it was taken to refer specifically to America. One reading the English attitude as reflected in parliamentary speeches cannot but decide that if there is to be any plea for peace, it must come from the central powers and not from the allies.

Other signs that peace is not yet at hand are the expected entry of Greece into the war and the new preparations being made for new phases of it. Germany is said to be building Zeppelins with feverish haste and England has perfected the "tanks" and is experimenting with 18-inch guns on battleships, to be used against coast fortifications. The Devonian of the Leland line left an American port yesterday armed for defence against submarines, and everywhere are preparations such as have not been seen for many months. Germany is now fighting a defensive war, having lost the initiative, but it would be foolish to suppose that the road of victory for the allies is a short or easy one.

In view of world conditions it seems useless for this country to try to intervene, and it looks as though peace may come from the mouths of the cannon and not through the mediation of any neutral power. We shall be fortunate indeed if we can restrict our controversies with all the belligerents to diplomatic channels and still keep aloof from a struggle where the cost is soaring away beyond human imagination. To keep neutral has not been an easy matter for the United States and if present signs do not fail it shall not be easier in the months or years ahead.

ASH BARRELS AND HEALTH

That other cities have to meet the same condition as Lowell is confronted with is proved by the account of a Fall River juvenile court session a few days ago. Five children were brought before Judge Hanly for rummaging in ash barrels, the police having been ordered to arrest them recently. The judge continued their cases but commented at some length on the practice, saying that the example of junk men in this respect is injurious. He remarked that the children who poke in ash barrels or pick over dumps endanger their own health and the health of the community and urged that junk dealers be prevented from giving bad example or buying from the children who gather up refuse. Any persons who have seen the eagerness with which the children of some sections delve in ash barrels and even in swill barrels must hope that the police will strive to put an end to the practice here as they are doing in Fall River.

It would also seem advisable this year that special instructions regarding civic fitness and sanitation be given in the schools. Children are quick to take such lessons home and with the incentive of disease prevention at the present time some good may be accomplished. It is worth trying even though the task sometimes seems hopeless.

F. F. AYER FOR WILSON

Frederick Fanning Ayer, Lowell's greatest benefactor, has come out strongly in support of President Wilson and has shown his interest in a sincere and practical way by contributing $1000 to aid in the president's re-election. Democrats are naturally gratified, not so much because Mr. Ayer has been a lifelong republican, but because he has always identified himself with real American principles and taken a broad view of national affairs. Mr. Ayer is too big a man to be prejudiced by partisan criticisms and in his expressed reasons for standing with the president, he brushes aside the petty considerations and mentions traits of the chief executive that stand secure against unfair party attacks. In his letter to the chairman of the democratic national committee, Mr. Ayer said:

"Convinced as I am that Mr. Wilson is one of the greatest presidents we have ever had, his hatred of war and love of his country perching like jewels in his crown of office, I send you herewith enclosed my check for $1000, to be added to the national campaign fund for his election."

These funds are a high tribute to the president and they are what all honest men would expect from the generous and high-minded Frederick Fanning Ayer.

PROGRESSIVES PASSED UP

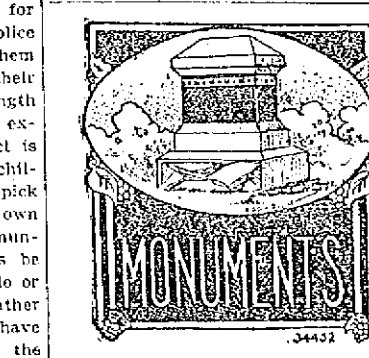

Those progressives who followed Roosevelt's humble leadership back to the fold of the old guard will not be flattered by recent happenings in the state of New York. At a convention held at Saratoga Springs on Thursday, the state committee of the republican party selected presidential electors, but passed over the progressives entirely. It had been expected that at least six progressives would be named, but the managers of the convention completely ignored the party and all who had belonged to it. It is so in all other parts of the country. The deluded progressives who thought they would be received as long lost brothers are treated with indifference if not with contempt, and they are receiving just as much attention as their policies received at the hands of the framers of the republican platform. Dissatisfaction is so ripe in New York that the chairman of the convention has felt obliged to announce that six vacancies were left in selecting presidential electors, there is still hope for the erstwhile progressives. It is not inspiring for those who stood so bravely at Armageddon to be now used as the tail to the republican kite.

FAR TOO LIGHT

The sentence of 18-months imprisonment in Atlanta penitentiary imposed on the confessed chief of a blackmailing gang which operated in many cities and fleeced victims out of many thousands of dollars will not tend to lessen the crime. It seems altogether too light, especially when it is recalled that the blackmailers impersonated federal officers and abused the principle of the Mann white slave law. People may be disposed to view cases like this without sympathy for the victims, but that does not minimize the crime of these rogues who descend to every ignoble method of getting wealthy victims into their toils. Blackmail has become very prevalent, so much so that decent citizens when traveling are forced to look upon all advances of strangers with suspicion. It is not a healthy condition that makes people in trains and hotels and everywhere else keep an air of abnormal reserve—but "safety first" advises it.

DID STRIKE FAIL?

At this writing it looks very much as though the sympathetic strike in New York has proved a failure, for notwithstanding the claims of the union leaders the response to the call has not been hearty. Street transportation is going on without serious disturbance and business life is almost normal in all lines. Whatever the reason, men have not been so ready as on other occasions to give

SEEN AND HEARD

Who's the Bonhead Now?

Gasoline has knocked the huckster business into a cocked hat.

Just Like Tough Meat

The sweet young girl was being shown through the Baldwin locomotive works.

"What is that thing?" she asked, pointing with her dainty parasol.

"That," answered the guide, "is an engine boiler."

She was an up-to-date young lady and at once became interested. "And why do they boil engines?" she inquired again.

"To make the engine tender," positively replied the resourceful guide.

Milk Cheap By the Yard

A stranger passed a shop where a notice was displayed saying that everything was sold by the yard. Thinking to play a joke on the shopman, he strove to buy a yard of milk.

The merchant, not in the least abashed, dipped his finger in a bowl of milk and drew a line a yard long on the counter.

The visitor, not wishing to be caught in his own trap, asked the price.

"Five cents," said the storekeeper. "All right. Roll it up; I'll take it."

The Waiter Was On

"I'll give that waiter," said a customer in a quick lunch room, "an order that will simply paralyze him."

"What will you have, sir?" presently "Bring me," said the would-be tormentor, "some verulum and ova."

"Yes, sir," And the waiter, a seedy-looking man, went away with a twinkle in his eye and returned with a large plate of something hot.

"Here y' are," he said, "bacon and eggs, in ordinary English, a shilling."

"What is that?" asked the customer, "robustus aptare," as we used to say at college. Anything else, sir?—Exchange.

It Was No Rehearsal

According to Andy Mack, who is by way of being an Irishman himself, a funeral was just emerging from a flat in the upper West Side of New York, when a flock of birds, passing by, heard his team and called down in a husky whisper to one of the pall bearers, whom he knew:

"Say, Larry, whose funeral is that?"

"Dickson's," answered Larry. "Little Hugh Dugan?"

"And is Dugan dead?" demanded the surprised truckman.

"Say," demanded Larry, hoarsely, "what do you think this is—a rehearsal?"—Exchange.

May Wish She Had

"No more shall I hear his footsteps on my floor just as the clock strikes eight."

"Gracious, Jeannette!"

"And the old parlor light will never burn low for him again."

"You don't mean it?"

"I do; and furthermore, he will never sit on this sofa three nights a week and call me pet names as he has been doing for two years."

"And tonight I am going to burn all the old love letters in my chest of drawers."

"E-but why? Are you going to discard him?"

"Discard him. Why, you goose, I am going to marry him!"

Viscidities of Childhood—the Creeps

The east wind wails.

Like an old man sobbing.

The night is dark.

Ten thieves are robbing;

The farmyard dog

Is frantically howling;

Dim shapes draw near

And ghosts are prowling;

Strange is the sound

That the floors are making.

Up with the covers!

The bed is shaking;

Hark to the river

Like panther lapping;

Grisly

And on the pane are rapping;

Signals, these,

With a ghastly warning;

How can I sleep.

NO TAFT - TEDDY LOVE FEAST AT RECEPTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—No campaign buttons bearing pictures of Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft and Chas. E. Hughes will be worn by guests at the Union League club reception in honor of the republican presidential candidate next Tuesday evening, it was learned last night. Chairman William R. Wilcox of the national committee is said to have been informed, although not by Mr. Hughes, that if campaign buttons are distributed they should bear only the likeness of the candidate himself.

Friends of Col. Roosevelt are reported to have intimated to Mr. Wilcox that undue emphasis has been placed upon the fact that the colonial and Prof. Taft will meet at the reception for the first time in the field of politics since 1912, resulting in the men who are now the only living ex-presidents being arrayed against each other in the contest for the presidency.

The suggestion has been made to the committee arranging the meeting that the real purpose of the gathering is to permit republicans to pay the respects to the party's standard bearer in the present campaign, and not to provide an occasion for a reconciliation between Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft.

The colonial is an honorary member of the Union League and has accepted the invitation to the reception because it is to be given in honor of Mr. Hughes, it was explained. Taft will shake hands with Prof. Taft. It will be the same manner of greeting as was extended when the two met a year ago at the funeral of Prof. Lounsbury at New Haven.

THE SPELLBINDER

We heartily agree with the Courier-Citizen that a large proportion of the republican party doesn't know how to vote intelligently. The result of the primaries demonstrates that fact and the Courier-Citizen admits it.

On Wednesday morning a well-known business man—a republican—approaching a newspaperman, asked: "Who won the registrar fight, Purcell or Stearns?"

But here's a better one: A local republican county official when asked when he was going to vote, replied: "Pretty soon. By the way, who are the candidates?"

Again our indignant neighbor says: "Outside the voting went much as usual—that is to say, it was done nonchalantly and with no very active intelligence. There is internal evidence that the bulk of the rural population was guided by name and their sound rather than by any direct knowledge of the merits of the contenders."

It is indeed a sad fact that the bulk of the republican party, in Middlesex county, at least, does not know how to vote with ordinary intelligence. Hence these tears!

International Hoat Race

The Courier-Citizen said yesterday:

"As expected the Cephalonia put out over on the Mayflower. The well-known rank and file of the democratic party, in Middlesex county, at least, does not know how to vote with ordinary intelligence. Hence these tears!"

And as they will on election day. But cheer up, Brother, the Mayflower came back strong in the county contest in which Harris, the unknown, defeated Mulligan. It's a good bet that if old Patrick Henry were on earth, he couldn't carry Middlesex county, on the republican ticket.

And discussing the defeat of Judge Mulligan, in order that there may be no deception our disappointed neighbor volunteers the following information: "The name of Mulligan is entirely honorable. It has been held by some New Englanders who immigrated just after the Mayflower immigrants and by some who immigrated year before last. As it happens the Natick Mulligans are of New England stock, old republicans, and one might almost add old Puritans."

Then he was not the Judge Mulligan, whom Harrigan and Mulligan immortalized in their famous song of years gone by. "The Mulligan Guards." What a pity that the Courier-Citizen held back its biography until after the primaries. But the best joke, speaking of "bone-head" voting by the republicans, is the fact that Smith J. Adams, candidate for county commissioner, received more votes than did Mr. McIntire, although the latter put up a busy campaign throughout the county while Mr. Adams did comparatively little work. Mr. McIntire is not one of "the Macs and the O's" any more than is Judge Mulligan, one of the Mulligans who immigrated year before last, but they met similar fates.

Six of One, Etc.

The Courier-Citizen discussing General Cole, on Thursday remarked, editorially: "Nevertheless Gen. Cole had this coming to him. To resign from the post of adjutant-general to go into politics as an opponent of the governor under whose appointment he was serving was an act difficult to justify, etc."

How about Justice Hughes, who resigned from the supreme court bench under President Wilson, to get into politics as an opponent of the president?

As a gentleman who came over on the Cephalonia, once remarked: "It's case aqual."

"Pool Caucus Hours"

Listen to them from across the street: "For sheer, solid impenetrable bone, commend us to the supreme intelligence—or rather supreme lack of it—which from the Lowell city had declared against the primaries shall begin at noon and remain open until 3 in the evening."

And the question arises where did the "bone" come from? Ten or twelve years ago Edward T. Goyard, secretary of the republican city committee was in the board of aldermen with a republican majority of the city council he put through the original legislation that provided for holding primaries from noon until 3 o'clock in the evening.

The present city charter was drafted by a committee of 60 from the Councilman's party, institution, the Lowell board of trade, and the same editor who now condemns, lauded the charter and its committee to high heaven. The committee of 60 asked the opinion of the city clerk's office as to the best hours for caucuses and the city clerk's office declared unanimously against the noon to 3 o'clock idea.

But when the committee drafted its charter it had section 7 read as follows: "At every preliminary election the polls shall be opened at 12 o'clock noon, and shall not be closed before 3 o'clock at night."

When Mayor O'Donnell was previously in office the city primaries were held from noon until 3 o'clock in the evening and a request was made of him that he lengthen the hours. He declined to do so and was roundly berated by certain disappointed candidates for not complying with the request. Since his first administration the time has been extended one hour. Lowell's city charter is statutory law, and hence the editor of the complaining newspaper must know that to change any section of it is beyond the power of anybody at the Lowell city hall. It will require an act of the legislature.

Thus emanating from republican sources the hours of the caucuses according to the late editor are in line with the general boneheadness of the local G.O.P.

But it is believed that next year a bill will be introduced in the legislature to permit Lowell to hold primaries during the same hours that prevail on election day. Other cities have so arranged the hours and none who have tried out the change would go back to the old system. It is claimed by the candidates for office that a couple of hours in the evening is far more valuable than many during the day. Yet never has there been a primary vote that has been procured in size the vote cast on an election day when the polls have been open from six until four. At city hall it is claimed that quicker and more accurate counting may be depended upon when the polls close at four, while it is also claimed that there is more accurate voting when the voters cast his ballot during the daylight. Yet public opinion is divided as to the proposition to change the hours of the primaries and many will be found to advance arguments for the retention of the evening hours making the principal claim that it gives the working-men an opportunity to vote after their day's work.

A Strenuous Time

Unquestionably Commissioner Morse has the most strenuous existence of any of the members of the municipal council. At present on the one hand he has a scarcity of labor at a time when labor is badly needed, while on the other, a portion of the labor that he has in hand, is after him for an increase in wages, and he says they can't have it. The catch-basin men are now after more pay. They get more than the ordinary laborers and because the ordinary laborers have recently received an increase the catch-basin men desire one. Then the residents of Hanks street are hounding him about a sidewalk which heavers is all right. Recently two foreigners employed at the bridge in Winchester from which place Commissioner Morse says his crushed stone, were killed by a premature blast, and all the other foreigners immediately quit their jobs which caused the ledge to shut down, thereby depriving Lowell of badly needed crushed stone and tying up work in Lowell.

Not a Candidate

Robert F. Marden has stated that he will not be a candidate for mayor next year. His decision was probably hastened by finding out who some of the people were who were booming him.

Considerable Disatisfaction

There is considerable dissatisfaction and a little discontent among republican circles over the outcome of the primaries. The result of the senatorial contest and the representative contest in wards three, six, seven and eight showed clearly that while the French-American voters of those wards supported Rep. Jewell, the other wing cast both its acchi and Senator Marchand and cut them deeply. Rep. Lewis is a much disappointed candidate for with the big vote he received in his own ward, with only normal support in the others he would have won.

THE SPELLBINDER.

2ND MASS. BOYS ORDERED TO COME HOME

COLUMBUS, N. M., Sept. 30.—Orders were received by telegraph from the war department yesterday afternoon for the Second Massachusetts Regiment to leave the border for its home station as soon as the quartermaster corps can provide necessary transportation. This news was hailed with delight by the entire camp. It spread with lightning rapidity and three minutes after Colonel Hayes received his message a thousand men were parading about beating tin pans and shouting their joy.

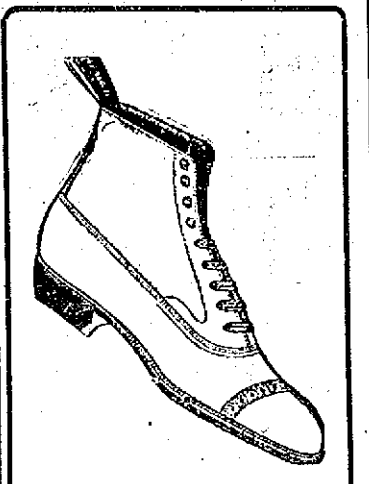

The enthusiasm was irrepressible. Machine gun motorcycles swept through the company streets, and the din of their horns to the confusion. Soldiers clambered to the roofs of mess halls waving mosquito netting or any other available white fabric, and roared themselves hoarse in their exultation. Not until the band assembled and began to lead the parade did the officers attempt to suppress the celebration. Band leaders were ordered back to their quarters and the men were warned not to carry their jubilation too far.

Transportation has been ordered, and company commanders are busy checking up their property. Second regiment officers in Mexico were notified by radio to report here immediately. The men were ordered back to the base or detailed with regular troops were summoned back to their own companies by nightfall.

Feverish activities were evidenced everywhere. It is not known, however, when the troops will entrain. It may be several days or a week. All depends upon the transportation. When they have the cars ready the western Massachusetts troops will be ready for their home journey. They have had three months of border service and the demonstration yesterday afternoon was evidence enough that they had tired of inactivity.

A few there were who expressed regret. But as a rule they were men with no responsibilities at home and who would enjoy soldiering as a profession.

Colonel Hayes has promised his regiment that within five minutes after he received orders to leave for home he would notify every company. He more than kept his word, for within three minutes after the base command or telephoned him that telegraphic orders had come from Washington, every man in camp had been informed. Trumpeters sounded officers' call. It was then 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and an unusual hour for the officers to be called into conference. They

Plans are being made for the erection of a 12-apartment residence at Tyler park, each apartment to contain three rooms, living room, dining room and chamber, or in other words, a kitchen. The building will cost between $35,000 and $40,000, and it is the first of several of these modern apartment residences to be built in this city.

The interior of the building is to be finished in mahogany, red gumwood and rosewood. Each apartment is to consist of three extra large rooms, viz: living room, dining room and chamber. Between the living and dining rooms are combination book cases and china closets with leaded glass doors, which form the base for large, square, fluted columns which sustain a beam dropped down from the ceiling. Bathrooms are to have porcelain tubs, lavatories and modern shower baths, syphon closets and vitreous china tanks. Kitchens are to be fitted up with the latest electric or gas cooking ranges, enameled refrigerators and china closets with glass doors. Every kitchen is provided with lifts from the ground floor and basement for groceryman, janitor, etc. Janitor service will be furnished. There will be bells to all doors, as well as speaking tubes and telephones.

Belvidere Park
Still growing and improving is this fine section of Lowell under the supervision of the Park Land Co. As displayed on this page this company is making a special inducement to those who may become interested within a short time. Convenient arrangements for payments and interest are proffered to all prospects. It seems quite an opportunity to obtain a house lot and prepare a home in a most progressive location, one which, no doubt, will be held in high esteem among residents. An agent from the company will be on the property Saturday and Sunday afternoons for the purpose of imparting any desired information to the eager inquirer who come to look around on these days. This is a very central location, and one readily reached by the Andover street cars, which leave the Square every half-hour.

George E. Vozelas, who owns the tract of land between Merrimack and Market streets in Hanover street has started the erection of a three-story building to cost between $8,000 and $10,000.

The Middlesex Co. has started work on the erection of a brick addition to the east end of a mill occupied by the W. Bagshaw Co. The structure will cost about $5,000.

Joseph Marin is constructing a garage at 204-206 Hall street at a cost of $5,000.

A seven-room cottage, two stories high, is being constructed for Mr. and Mrs. John T. Kelley at 13 Bond street at a cost of $2,000.

The James Co., lessees of the building at the corner of Merrimack and Palmer streets is removing the present entrances of the premises in Merrimack street for the purpose of relocating an entrance in Palmer street and one in Merrimack street. Considerable alterations are also to be made in the interior of the building, the cost of the changes to be about $1,000.

Permits issued during the week in the office of the inspector of buildings are as follows:

To John Hayden for an addition and alterations in the building numbered 130 South street in order to add two small tenements to the building; to the Daniel Gage estate for interior changes and an addition to the property, 12 Chase avenue; to Walter S. Miller for the erection of a garage at 18 Eurt street; to Cherry & Webb Co. for the removal of two small buildings on the third story of their building at the corner of John and Lee streets and the placing of a large window; to Stanislaus Worziak for the erection of a storage shed at 11 Alton street; to Omer Dezel for the placing of a store in the basement of the building numbered 548 Moody street; to Benjamin Bogdanoff for the erection of a wagon and carriage shed at 42 South Walker street; to Rosa E. 20, to leave the homestead that prompted Edward Gilmore, 26, to take the lives of his mother and sister and commit suicide.

Since the death of Rufus Gilmore, father of the young man, Edward had tried to induce his mother and sister to move to Winsted where Edward was foreman in a clock factory.

Engaging an apartment there and paying a month's rent in advance, Edward, who was administrator of his father's estate, secured a leave of absence and came to Tolland to move the household effects.

While here, he sold the real estate to Peter Malone of Westfield, taking part payment. The stock and tools were sold to Charles Sauter of New Boston. The transfer was made without the sanction of Mrs. Gilmore and her daughter, who refused to move to Winsted when a truckman drove up to the door to get the goods.

After the truckman had left the premises, it is believed that Edward committed the murders.

Henry Jones, the nearest neighbor, who lives two miles away, said that the young man had an uncontrollable temper and that insanity was manifest in the family. As an evidence of this, he cited the fact that John Gilmore, an uncle, and Lydia Gilmore, 30, a sister, were recently adjudged insane and committed to the Northampton asylum.

The bodies were taken in charge by a Granville undertaker and will be buried in the Tolland cemetery.

PRES. WILSON HAS BUSY DAY AT SHADOW LAWN

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 30.—President Wilson's program for today is the busiest arranged for him since he came to Shadow Lawn. This morning he reviewed the Fourth New Jersey regiment of infantry at Sea Girt and this afternoon he will receive and address members of the young men's democratic clubs from New York.

The New Jersey regiment recently returned from the Mexican border and because of this fact the president felt a particular interest in it. He reviewed the command on horseback.

Representatives of the democratic national committee arrived here early today to complete the arrangements for the reception of the young democrats who were expected to arrive on special trains at 3 o'clock. The visitors, it is explained, will march from the railroad station to Shadow Lawn.

A distance of a mile, led by two bands. The president is prepared to speak to them at 4 o'clock. It is understood that his address will deal with reasons why young men should vote the democratic ticket.

STRIKE HALTS FERRIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Ferryboats of the New York Central Railroad company plying between Manhattan and New Jersey, were tied up during the rush hours late today by a strike of 150 employees on the boats.

The latest labor difficulty in this city resulted from the men's demand for shorter hours and higher pay. The strike has no connection, it was said, with the traction situation.

OFFICER'S HOLD RESCUE

STONEHAM, Sept. 30.—After his attention had been attracted by cries from the roof of a house on Wright street, Stoneham, Patrolman John J. O'Brien yesterday climbed a waterspout, hauled over his head and rescued 12-year-old William West, who was perched on the ridgepole. The boy was in imminent danger of falling to his death.

SPEAKER AND CHASE ARE LEADERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—It looks as though Hal Chase and Tris Speaker would carry off big league batting championships this year. With the season to end next week, Chase is four points ahead of his nearest competitor, now Lou McCarty of New York in the National and Speaker is a good 30 points ahead of Cobb in the American. Chase has been playing a great game for Cincinnati. Records printed here today, including the performances of last Wednesday, show he has total bases numbering 241, giving him place in the league second only to Wheat of Brooklyn, who is credited with 235. Chase has stolen 20 bases.

The National's base stealing honors seem destined again to go to Max Carey, Pittsburgh, who is leading with 53. Flack, Chicago, is ahead in sacrifice hits with 54; Williams, Chicago, in home runs with 12; Burns, New York, in runs scored with 92 and Brooklyn in team hitting with 261.

Leading batters: Chase, Cincinnati, 334; McCarty, Brooklyn-New York, 329; Wheat, Brooklyn, 320; Daubert, Brooklyn, 320; Hinchman, Pittsburgh, 313; Hornsby, St. Louis, 309; Robertson, New York, 293; Stock, Philadelphia, 293; Long, St. Louis, 292; Zimmerman, Chicago-New York, 292.

Cobb will retain the American league base stealing championship, even though he loses the batting title, for his record is now 52 thefts, far ahead of anybody else, though way behind his 86 for the season of 1915. Eddie Collins has tied Weaver for the lead in sacrifice hits at 41; Jackson is ahead in total bases with 233; Pipp leads in home runs with 11; Cobb in runs scored with 103 and Detroit in club batting with 251.

Leading batters: Speaker, Cleveland, 302; Cobb, Detroit, 302; Jackson, Chicago, 300; Strunk, Philadelphia, 315; E. Collins, Chicago, 307; Gardner, Boston, 306; Veach, Detroit, 300; Felsch, Chicago, 298; Sisler, St. Louis, 297; Bauman, New York, 296.

TIGERS ELIMINATED IN RACE FOR PENNANT

The Tigers cannot even tie the Red Sox now. Should the Boston club lose all of its remaining games, four, and Detroit win the two yet on its schedule, the standing would be: Boston, won 89; lost, 65; Detroit, won 88; lost, 66.

The White Sox still have a chance to win. If the Red Sox lose the four games and the White win the four they yet have to play, the figures would be: Chicago, 90-64; Boston, 88-66. The White Sox can tie if they win all four games they have to play, while the Red Sox win one and lose three, or by losing one and winning three, while the Red Sox are losing all four games yet on their schedule. Boston has yet to play one game with New York and three with the Athletics, while all of Chicago's games are with Cleveland.

The standing:

| | Won | Lost | P.C. |
|---------|-----|------|-------|
| Boston | 89 | 61 | .5923 |
| Chicago | 88 | 61 | .5923 |
| Detroit | 88 | 66 | .5673 |

There was no change in the National league race yesterday, all games which could possibly affect the race for first place being stopped by rain.

TENER UPHOLDS EBBETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The management of the Brooklyn team has been unjustly criticized in the matter of seat prices for the world's series game, as the prices were fixed by the national commission, according to a statement made here yesterday by John K. Tener, president of the National league.

"The prices that have been announced in Brooklyn were determined by the National commission at a meeting in Cincinnati, Sept. 15, to arrange a tentative schedule," Mr. Tener said. "The commission allowed some latitude to the Brooklyn and Detroit clubs in the matter of five dollar seats because of their limited grandstand and box seat capacity and because of the added fact that all seats listed at five dollars in each park were as choice in location as regular box reservations."

PIRATES RELEASE SCOTT

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—The Pittsburgh National league club yesterday released pitcher James Scott to the club at Macon, Ga., from which team he was recently obtained. This reduces the roster for the local team to the required limit of thirty-five players.

RED SOX TURN ON YANKEES AND WIN

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Babe Ruth, who is physically equipped for any sort of a performance, hauled the Red Sox one notch nearer that mathematical certainty of winning the American league pennant yesterday. Babe did his best by shutting out the Yankees, while the Carrigans were basking in the confidence that three runs, made in the second inning off Bob Shawkey, gave them.

The three were the only counters of the afternoon's game, which apart from that second was as close a contest as one would care to see. Babe and Bob were both in good form, and both were tendered great support, and so the assemblage of Red Sox fans were wised up as to just why the Clan of the Carrigan has been able to ride rough shod over the rest of the league. One big inning and the game was over.

Yesterday's victory put the Detroit Tigers out of the running, forever and ever, and made the White Sox's chances what you might call scant. Should the champions win this afternoon and the Comiskey lose one of their two games, the race of 1916 will be all over.

The Sox scored all three runs in the second.

Gardner doubled right off the reel and Scott put him on third with a bunt which he defeated. Shawkey tried to catch the Deacon off first, but Pipp muffed the throw and Larry trotted in. Thomas stroled and Ruth died on an infield tap. Hooper's suicide fly to left and Janny's triple in the other direction pushed over two more markers. Said triple should have been a monosack, but Miller played the ball wretchedly. Shorten ended the uprising with a boulder to Geddon.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

"Ed" Walsh, scouting for the White Sox, has picked up a young pitcher from an independent league in Wisconsin, named Martin Lammers, who has won all 18 games this season. He bats from the left chute, Wis., and is 19 years of age.

Injuries to "Ray" Schalk and "Red" Russell were supposed to have seriously crippled the White Sox in their drive for the pennant, but the good work of "Jack" Lapp has tided the club over one of its handiaps and Eddie Cicotte came gallantly to the rescue of the pitching corps.

"Joe" Lutz, Huggins' stocky recruit pitcher, bears a striking resemblance to "Jay" Gould, twirler of the Indians. Both are small of stature but have a world of speed.

Harry Davis, coach of the Mackmen, will manage a team of "barnstormers" after the season, among the members of which will be Frank Baker and "Fritz" Maitel of the Yankees.

Ferdie Schupp has more than repaid the confidence of John McGraw. Sitting on the bench for three years and part of this season Schupp was just recently given a chance to prove his ability. His response has been meteoric. In his last six games, all of which he won, he allowed only seven hits and one earned run.

Clarke Griffith, the peppery manager of the Washington team of the American league, says that the chances of the Phillies topping the bunting in the National league race seemed very bright, but that if the Phils do play the Boston Red Sox in the world series the Moran men will go down to defeat. "Understand," exclaimed "Old Fox," "what I have to say is only a one man opinion and I am not rooting for any certain team to win in the league race or in the world series. To remain in the race the Phils must take two of the three games from Brooklyn. If they can do this the pennant is theirs as they have only the Braves to fight and by the time the Braves reach Philadelphia their pitchers will have been shot to pieces attempting to wallop the Giants. My team has played against the Dodgers every spring and I know the Phils are just a little bit stronger than Robinson. Now, assuming that the Phils win the pennant, can they beat the Red Sox? For my part I think that man for man Boston has a better team and the pitching staff is a little superior than Moran's. The Red Sox have a star hurler in Ruth, and if he is matched against Alexander it will be a beautiful battle. Ruth can also hit and hit hard. Then Carrigan has shown Maye, Leasing and several other top notch pitchers who I believe will repeat last year's trick of standing the Phils on their heads. A lot has been said about the wonderful pitching staff of the Phils. Alexander, we know, is a most wonderful hurler and I place him A No. 1. But take the rest of Moran's staff, do they compare as favorably as the Boston pitchers? To my mind they do not. Is it not true that the Phils' pitchers cannot be depended upon? Do they not pitch erratic ball? Don't they go in one day and hurl wonderful ball and the next start get wallowed around the lot?"

LOWELL BOXER READY TO MEET ANY FEATHERWEIGHT IN GAME

CHARLIE SHEPPARD

Charlie Sheppard, the sensational featherweight, has returned to Lowell after a most successful trip through Nova Scotia, where he won several bouts from some of the best boxers that part of the country.

Sheppard intends to make his home in this city, where he will train for future bouts. The young boxer looked to be in the pink of condition, and said that he never felt better in his life. He now claims the New England featherweight championship and stands ready to meet any man of his weight, 125 pounds, in the country.

While across the border he engaged in seven bouts, and was returned the winner in all. On Sept. 15, he met Patsy Hagan, champion featherweight of H. M. navy, in a fifteen round bout at Halifax, and came out on the long end after a fast and exciting contest that went the limit. All the Halifax papers commended the Lowell boy for his clean and clever work, and urged the club matchmakers to put him on soon again. One account said:

HALIFAX, Sept. 15.—The boxing bout at the Arena last night between Patsy Hagan and Charlie Sheppard went the full distance and returned Sheppard as winner. Hagan showed the effects of being called in as a substitute in having a little superfluous bulge at his waist line. Sheppard though clever in his last appearance here, showed a vast improvement and was faster and hit harder than on the occasion of their last meeting. In the line of boxing and footwork Sheppard worked on the sailor with a confidence that was surprising considering the result of the last bout.

The article then gives a descriptive account of the bout, round by round, in which it states that Sheppard had the advantage in practically every session.

RAIN STOPPED PHILLIES BROOKLYN GAME

BROOKLYN, Sept. 30.—The Phillies and Dodgers failed to break the deadlock in the National league race yesterday because rain interfered after an inning and a half had been played. Up to that time neither team had scored so it was decided that today two games will be played.

The first game will be run off in the morning and will start at 10:30 o'clock. President Cholly Ebbetts came to the conclusion that if he did this—had one game in the morning and another in the afternoon—he would clean up for fall. Although he has made more cash this season than any other owner on the circuit and intends to charge higher prices for world's series tickets than the fans could ever before, he still has the "clutching hand" out.

In spite of the threatening clouds yesterday the ball park was filled with people and Cholly figured that these fans would get away for nothing at a double-header today and grab him from getting a big pecuniary rakeoff. So he intended the forenoon and afternoon sessions.

Only one hit had been made, a single by Wheat, up to the time the game was called today. Rixey for Philadelphia and Pfeffer for Brooklyn were the opposing pitchers.

LOWELL HIGH ELEVEN IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

The Lowell high football squad went to Woburn today, for the opening game of the 1916 season, with the Woburn high school eleven as opponents. The local boys under the direction of Coach Conway, are in fine condition for the game. They have put in considerable practice at Washington park and all are ready for the sound of the referee's whistle.

With the material available Coach Conway has whipped together a very formidable team. This year's backfield, with Capt. Liston, Arthur Lynch, P. Mahoney, Mansur and other candidates, is an exceptionally fast one. The line is heavy and with more seasoning will present a formidable offense and defense.

The squad left Merrimack square at 12:25 o'clock, accompanied by Coach Conway and student managers. Those who made the trip were: Capt. Liston, Arthur Lynch, Hayward, P. Mahoney, Davey, Hughes, Connelley, Brown, White, Green, Hamlet, Colton, McGraw, Vaughn, Mansur, Mac, Fletcher, Welch, Williams, Edwards, Burkenhead, P. Mahoney and Markham.

YALE TO NUMBER MEN

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Sept. 26.—Yale will number the members of the football eleven in all the games of the season. Till the present time Yale has consistently opposed the plan. Guy Shehall, the Yale crew coach yesterday summed this up, after spending the summer at his home in England. He will take charge of the fall rowing when the crews are called out next Monday. A Yale-Columbia race is possible in November.

PHILLIES NOW LEAD NAT'L LEAGUE

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Sept. 30.—The Philadelphia captured the lead in the National league pennant hunt this morning by defeating the Brooklyn 7 to 2. Manager Robinson sent his star pitcher, Pfeffer, to the mound to check the Philadelphia's advance but he was hammered hard and consistently and his service failed to baffle the bats of the visitors. Luders helped himself to two two-baggers and a home run. Brooklyn could do little with Rixey's delivery. The game was played on a wind swept field.

The score, by innings:

| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | Total |
|--------------|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|-------|
| Philadelphia | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 5 |

Two base hits: Luders, (3). Home run: Luders. Stolen bases: Bancroft, Myers, Johnston. Sacrifice hits: Bancroft, Killebrew. Double plays: Stog to Nichols to Luders; Nichols to Luders. Left on bases: Philadelphia 5, Brooklyn 7. First on errors: Philadelphia 1, Brooklyn 1. Base on balls: Off Rixey 4, Pfeffer 2. Hits and earned runs: Off Rixey 5 hits, no runs in 9 innings; off Pfeffer 10 hits, six runs in 5 innings. Struck out: By Rixey, 3; Pfeffer 3. Wild pitch: Rixey. Time 2 hrs. Umpires: Klem and Emalle.

HAUGHTON NOT TO QUIT THE BOSTON BRAVES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The following signed statement was issued by Manager Stallings of the Braves last night:

"The stories associating my name with the presidency of the Boston Braves are so untrue that it is ridiculous to dignify them with a denial. I am strictly a manager and will remain one as long as I continue in the game."

"Mr. Haughton and myself are working in perfect accord with the one thought of producing a winner for Braves field in 1917."

The story that Pres. Percy D. Haughton of the Braves would retire from professional baseball, that he would be succeeded by Manager George T. Stallings, and the latter would be supplanted by Fred Mitchell, was generally denied in Boston yesterday.

Pres. Haughton and Treas. Arthur C. Wise both said there was absolutely no truth in the yarn, and Manager Stallings and Coach Mitchell, who are with the team in New York, both affirmed that there was nothing to the report.

YELLE BEATS CROWLEY

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Freddie Yelle of Taunton knocked out Mike Crowley of Malden in the eighth round of their contest at the Commercial A.C. last night in a fast bout. Crowley's fast footwork got him away from many punches, but body blows gradually tired him.

MANAGER MCGRAW EXPECTS BIG THINGS OF TWIRLER SCHUPP

NEBES BEATS YALE IN EXCITING RACE

LAST OF SERIES OF THREE RACES AT THE ROLLAWAY, HURD STREET, TONIGHT

Albert Nebes, Lowell's premium skater, just nosed out a winner last night over Billy Yale, the New York star, in the finest and hardest fought skating race yet staged at The Rollaway. Mgr. Moore has claimed from the start that both these men were trained to the minute and certainly these races are proving his assertion. From the very crack of the gun the racers "started something" and there were no dull moments at any time during the entire grind. Nebes got away in the lead, but by clever work forced Yale to set the pace for the first 8 laps when Yale "pulled" one on Nebes and Nebes was shot to the front. Ever afterward it was first Yale, then Nebes leading with the crowd standing and cheering each favorite as he kept gaining speed until at the end of the third mile both men were fairly flying around the track. The time for entire 5 miles was 14 minutes 15 seconds, and the last 2 1/2 miles 7 minutes flat.

It was doubly interesting to see these men on the new raceway as it is so much larger, giving a longer straightaway and a better chance to pass and repass each other. Tonight these same men are to go an unlimited pursuit race, the racers starting one at each end of the hall and going until one overtakes and passes the other. This should be by far the most exciting and interesting race of the series and some real stiff racing is looked for.

Manager Moore, noting the closeness of these previous races, has offered a side special cash purse of $25 to the winner of tonight's event in addition to the race stake, so all can look for something very unusual in the racing line.

It was announced from the floor also that the entire world's series baseball games would be reproduced on an electric score board at the Rollaway. Positive satisfaction is guaranteed by the manager of the Rollaway (Grosvenor rink), of each and every play within two minutes time of the actual play as made on the diamond and transmitted by direct private wire to the Rollaway. Every known device and improvement has been installed on this board.

FAIRMOUNT CAMPERS HOLD DANCE

Last night at Associate hall the Fairmount Campers held a very successful early-season dancing party. An interesting and entertaining program was carried out. Doyle's favorite six-piece orchestra furnished the music, giving a concert from 8 to 8:30, when dancing began. Between the dances and at intermission the Honey Boy quartette—Leonard Brown, James Lyons, Joseph Perry, Ed Handley—rendered pleasing numbers; also Andrew Doyle, soloist. This was in addition to the singing with dancing. The officers were John King, general manager; John O'Connell, treasurer; William Welch, floor director; Thomas Clark, assistant floor director; John Mulligan, chief aid; Thomas Teague, aids; Fred Gillis, John Saughnessy, Martin Cosgrove, Martin O'Connell, Paul Clark, James Conney, Joseph Callan, Paul McCaffrey.

G.M.A.C. WHIST

A delightful whist was conducted last evening by the G.M.A.C. at their hall in Pawtucket street. The affair was largely attended and all present spent a most enjoyable evening. CASES IN POLICE COURT OFFENDERS ARE FINED

BOYS FROM ROXBURY GOT INTO TROUBLE AT TYNGSBORO, BUT
GOT OFF EASILY

A group of youngsters from Roxbury started out to see the world a few days ago and landed in Tyngsboro, where they secured employment at Flint's box shop. They made the trip to the neighboring town from their home city on the electric cars and yesterday they made up their mind to go along further on their trip, but before leaving the quiet town of Tyngsboro they decided to take on a supply of apples and accordingly went into the orchard of Henry Norris and helped themselves with the fruit with the result that the town officer was summoned and he escorted the young men who are still in their teens to the station.

At this morning's session of the police court, they were charged with the larceny of 50 apples. They gave their names as William Long, Joseph E. Fallon, Thomas J. Glynn, George F. Golden, James J. Frayne and Joseph Gallagher. They all entered a plea of guilty and inasmuch as they all promised to return to their respective homes, their cases were placed on file.

Present at Gaming

Herbert Ryder and Stanley Cislakiewicz were both arraigned on complaints charging them with being present at a game on the Lord's day. Ryder admitted his guilt and was continued for sentence until Oct. 30, while the man with the long name denied his guilt. After one of the arresting officers had testified, the defendant changed his plea and was fined $5.

Joseph Lessard was charged with the larceny of a certain amount of groceries from John F. Walsh, proprietor of the Union market and through his counsel, George Toye, he entered a plea of not guilty. The complainant testified that on Sept. 22 Lessard went to the store and purchased certain goods and used a private stamp to mark his bill paid. He was detected and arrested by Inspector Walsh. On account of his family the plaintiff said he did not want him punished provided he made restitution. He agreed to do this and the defendant was given a suspended sentence.

Assault Case

Manuel Mello got into a little scrimmage with Michael Feldman and in the course of the controversy, he struck Feldman on the right eye, discolored badly the optic, with the result that Feldman complained to the police. Mello was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery, but denied his guilt. The complainant claimed Mello was standing in front of his (Feldman's) porch in Chelmsford street and was playing a game with two other young men. Feldman ordered the trio away with the result that Mello gave him a "slap" on the eye. Feldman's testimony was corroborated by his young daughter and another woman. Mello claimed he was assaulted by Feldman and his testimony was corroborated by two other witnesses. The court then found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $7.

A middle-aged man brought in on a complaint charging him with being a common drunkard, admitted his guilt and he was continued for sentence until Oct. 30, while a young man who was arrested in Tewksbury in an intoxicated condition was fined $2.

Fined $20

The case of Henry Kelley, charged with assault and battery upon Samuel Pappas, which dates back to July 24, was tried this morning and although the defendant pleaded not guilty, the court found against him and ordered him to pay a fine of $20. Plaintiff testified that Kelley struck him with a bottle and fractured his jaw.

Contractors Ask Suspension of the 8-Hour Law on Pawtucket Bridge

It was stated in these columns a few days ago that the National Engineering company had received a permit from the state police for a suspension of the eight-hour law in connection with the work on Pawtucket bridge and the statement was correct, but the permit, it seems, had been only temporarily granted and the absolute necessity of such extension is now being investigated by the commission on labor and industries.

Mayor O'Donnell appeared before the commission at Boston and asked for the suspension of the law, claiming that it is impossible to secure enough workmen on the bridge. He stated that unless the condition is remedied it would be impossible to complete the structure before cold weather. This would entail a heavy loss of the contractors and would inconvenience many persons in the city.

The mayor was accompanied by City Engineer Kearney and a representative of the National Engineering company, both of whom agreed with the mayor as to the conditions.

State Labor Commissioner Edwin Mulready came to Lowell yesterday afternoon to look into the situation, and it was intimated that the statute might be suspended under certain conditions. Mr. Mulready called at city hall and was in conference with the mayor for some time. After looking the bridge over and talking with the contractors he went back to Boston, announcing that he would lay the matter before the commission. It is understood that a decision will be forthcoming in a short time. In view of the fact that the bridge should be finished this year that the residents may not be disappointed further, the mayor said he felt entirely justified in asking the state commission of labor and industry to grant the permit for overtime work.

TO FIGHT PARALYSIS NEW YORK HAS TO EXAMINE A MILLION SCHOOL CHILDREN

TEACHER EXAMINES NEW YORK SCHOOL GIRL

The infantile paralysis epidemic failed to have any considerable effect in reducing the attendance at the opening sessions of the public, parochial and private schools in New York city. Officials of the board of education estimated that the total enrollment was only about 15 per cent. below what would have been regarded as normal, which is, roughly, about 1,000,000. Of which is, roughly, about 100,000 were kept at home by their parents through fear of the epidemic. The other 50,000 appeared ready to attend the schools but were sent home by physicians and nurses of the department of health because they came from premises where cases of poliomyelitis are under quarantine or because they had only recently returned to New York from the country and failed to bring with them the proper certificates. Several educational innovations marked the opening, chief among them being the inspection of every child by nurses and physicians of the department of health, the inauguration of a system of compulsory physical training for the first time in the history of American education and the fact that the year marked the beginning of compulsory military training for boys more than sixteen years of age, the first time such a system has ever been prescribed by law in an American state. Every child who enters the schools for the first time this session is questioned and inspected for signs of an infectious disease, and none is permitted to enter the classroom until the inspection has been completed.
